Criminal Code Act 1924

An Act to declare, consolidate, and amend the criminal law, and to establish a code of criminal law

[Royal Assent 4 April 1924]

Be it enacted by His Excellency the Governor of Tasmania, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, in Parliament assembled, as follows:

1. Short title

This Act may be cited as the Criminal Code Act 1924.

2. Establishment of the Criminal Code

(1) After the passing of this Act, the provisions contained in the Code of Criminal Law set forth in Schedule 1, and hereinafter called the Code, shall be the law of this State with respect to the several matters therein dealt with.

(2) The said Code may be cited as the Criminal Code.

3. Repeals

(1) After the passing of this Act no penal enactment contained in any Imperial Act, not having the force of law in this State otherwise than by virtue of the provisions of section 24 of the Australian Courts Act 1828, shall continue in force or be applied in the administration of justice in this State.

(2) The several Acts mentioned in Schedule 2 shall be repealed to the extent in the said schedule indicated.

(3) The repeal of any statute or part of a statute set forth in the said schedule shall not affect the construction of any other statute, or of any other part of the same statute.

4. Construction of statutes

(1) After the passing of this Act every statute shall, for the purposes of this Act, be read and construed as if any offence therein mentioned for which the offender may be prosecuted on indictment or information (however such offence may be therein described or referred to) were described or referred to as a crime as defined by the Code; and all provisions of this Act relating to crimes generally shall apply to every such offence.

(2) Where in any statute reference is made to proceedings upon information in the Supreme Court, the same shall be construed as a reference to proceedings upon indictment.

(3) Except as provided in section 36 of the Acts Interpretation Act 1931, nothing contained in this Act or in the Code shall be construed to affect the construction of any statute, or of any provision thereof, creating an offence punishable summarily or referring or relating to summary proceedings.

5. Trial by magistrate in certain cases

(1) Where in any unrepealed statute, passed before the passing of this Act, it is provided that any offence therein created, defined, or made punishable shall be punishable by any term of imprisonment not exceeding 2 years (whether such offence is described as a misdemeanour, or otherwise), or that any offence shall be a misdemeanour, and no specific punishment is thereby provided for the same, every such offence shall be punishable summarily before a magistrate as herein provided.

(2) In every such case, as aforesaid, a magistrate shall have power to impose upon any person convicted of any such offence a term of imprisonment not exceeding one year, or such shorter period as may be provided by such statute, in addition to any fine or other punishment, if any, authorized thereby, or otherwise.

(3) In any case in which the term of imprisonment authorized by any such statute exceeds one year the magistrate before whom any person is charged with an offence thereunder may –

(a) if such person demands to be tried by jury; or

(b) if, in his opinion, the charge should be tried upon indictment – commit such person for trial upon indictment under the Code.

(4) A person so committed shall thereupon be dealt with under the provisions of the Code relating to proceedings upon indictment, and may be punished in manner provided by such statute as aforesaid.

(5) The provisions of this section shall apply only in respect of offences which were intended by the Act constituting the same to be prosecuted upon information or indictment, and in respect of which no other mode of proceeding is provided by such Act or any other Act.

6. Prosecutions at common law abolished

After the passing of this Act no person shall be proceeded against as for a crime as defined by the Code, except under the provisions of this Act, or of some other Act, or of some Commonwealth Act, or of some Imperial Act in force in this State.

7. Proceedings to be initiated by indictment

Except as otherwise provided by the Code or an Act, proceedings in the Supreme Court against any person for a crime shall be initiated by indictment, and shall be prosecuted in accordance with the provisions of the Code relating thereto.

8. Saving of common law defences

All rules and principles of the common law which render any circumstances a justification or excuse for any act or omission, or a defence to a charge upon indictment, shall remain in force and apply to any defence to a charge upon indictment, except in so far as they are altered by, or are inconsistent with, the Code.

9. No remedy in tort for act declared lawful: Civil remedies for crime not suspended

(1) Where by the Code any act is declared to be lawful, no action shall be brought in respect thereof.

(2) Except as aforesaid, the provisions of this Act shall not affect any right of action which any person would have had against another if this Act had not been passed; nor shall the omission from the Code of any penal provision in respect of any act or omission which, before the passing of this Act, constituted an actionable wrong affect any right of action in respect thereof.

(3) No civil remedy for any act or omission shall be suspended by reason that such act or omission amounts to a criminal offence.

10. Saving of summary procedure at common law for contempt of court

Nothing in this Act shall affect the authority of courts of record to punish a person summarily for the offence commonly known as "contempt of court"; but no person shall be so punished and also punished under the provisions of the Code for the same act or omission.

11. Outlawry, attain, and forfeiture abolished

(1) After the passing of this Act no proceedings in outlawry shall be taken, and no judgment of outlawry shall be pronounced, against any person.

(2) No confession, verdict, inquest, conviction, or judgment of or for any treason, felony, or other crime, shall hereafter cause any attainder or corruption of blood or any forfeiture or escheat other than any fine or penalty imposed by the sentence of the Court.

12. Rules of Court

(1) The judges, or a majority of them, may make Rules of Court prescribing all such matters and things as are required to be prescribed or as may be necessary or desirable for giving effect to the provisions of the Code.

(1A) The Rules of Court may provide for –

(a) all matters relating to procedure and practice –

(i) on appeals to the Court of Criminal Appeal on questions reserved for the consideration and determination of that Court, or referred to that Court, pursuant to Chapter XLII of the Code; and

(ii) on or after the committal of a defendant to the Supreme Court for sentence or trial; and

(iii) in all proceedings before courts of trial; and

(b) all incidental matters.

(2) This section does not authorize the making of provision by a Rule of Court of any matter for which provision may be made under section 12A.

12A. Business and sittings of court

(1) The Chief Justice is responsible for ensuring the orderly and expeditious discharge of the business of the criminal jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeal and accordingly may, subject to this Act and after such consultation with the judges as is appropriate and practicable, make arrangements as to the judge or judges who is or are to constitute the Court in a particular matter or class of matters.

(2) Sittings of the criminal jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and sittings of the Court of Criminal Appeal are to be held from time to time as required at the places at which the registries of the Court are established and at such other places as may be determined by the Chief Justice from time to time.

13. Saving of prerogative of mercy

Nothing herein contained shall affect His Majesty's Royal prerogative of mercy.

SCHEDULE 1

1A. Definitions for purposes of sections 130, 130A, 130B, 130C, 130D, 130E, 130F, 130G and 337C

For the purposes of sections 130, 130A, 130B, 130C, 130D, 130E, 130F, 130G and 337C –

access, in relation to material, includes the display of the material by an electronic medium or any other output of the material by an electronic medium;

child exploitation material means material that describes or depicts, in a way that a reasonable person would regard as being, in all the circumstances, offensive, a person who is or who appears to be under the age of 18 years –

(a) engaged in sexual activity; or

(b) in a sexual context; or

(c) as the subject of torture, cruelty or abuse (whether or not in a sexual context);

electronic medium means any thing that contains data from which text, images or sound can be generated;

material includes any film, printed matter, electronic data and any other thing of any kind (including any computer image or other depiction);

person includes part of a person;

produce includes make, film, print, photograph and record.

2. Definition of attempts

(1) An attempt to commit a crime is an act or omission done or made with intent to commit that crime, and forming part of a series of events which if it were not interrupted would constitute the actual commission of the crime.

(2) The offence of attempting to commit a crime may be committed, although the offender voluntarily desists from the actual commission of the crime itself, and whether under the circumstances it was possible to commit such crime or not.

(3) The point at which such a series of events as aforesaid begins depends upon the circumstances of each particular case.

(4) Whether an act or omission is, or is not, too remote to constitute an attempt to commit a crime is a question of law.

2A. Consent

(1) In the Code, unless the contrary intention appears, "consent" means free agreement.

(2) Without limiting the meaning of "free agreement", and without limiting what may constitute "free agreement" or "not free agreement", a person does not freely agree to an act if the person –

(a) does not say or do anything to communicate consent; or

(b) agrees or submits because of force, or a reasonable fear of force, to him or her or to another person; or

(c) agrees or submits because of a threat of any kind against him or her or against another person; or

(d) agrees or submits because he or she or another person is unlawfully detained; or

(e) agrees or submits because he or she is overborne by the nature or position of another person; or

- (f) agrees or submits because of the fraud of the accused; or
  - (g) is reasonably mistaken about the nature or purpose of the act or the identity of the accused; or
  - (h) is asleep, unconscious or so affected by alcohol or another drug as to be unable to form a rational opinion in respect of the matter for which consent is required; or
  - (i) is unable to understand the nature of the act.
- (3) If a person, against whom a crime is alleged to have been committed under chapters XIV or XX, suffers grievous bodily harm as a result of, or in connection with, such a crime, the grievous bodily harm so suffered is evidence of the lack of consent on the part of that person unless the contrary is shown.

Chapter II - Persons Subject to Punishment for a Crime

3. Which parties to crimes to be deemed principals in the first degree

- (1) Where a crime is committed, each of the following persons is deemed to be a party to, and to be guilty of, the crime, and may be charged with actually committing it:
- (a) every person who actually commits the crime;
  - (b) every person who does any act or makes any omission for the purpose of enabling or aiding another person to commit the crime;
  - (c) every person who abets another person in committing the crime;
  - (d) every person who instigates any other person to commit the crime.
- (2) Any person who instigates another to do any act or make any omission of such a nature that, if he had himself done the act or made the omission, the act or omission would have constituted a crime on his part, is guilty of the same crime as if he had himself done the act or made the omission; and may be charged with himself committing that crime.

4. Crimes committed in prosecution of common purpose

Where 2 or more persons form a common intention to prosecute an unlawful purpose in conjunction with one another, and in the prosecution of such purpose a crime is committed of such a nature that its commission was a probable consequence of the prosecution of such purpose, each of them is deemed to have committed the crime.

5. In case of instigators, mode of execution immaterial

Where a person instigates another to commit a crime, and a crime is actually committed after such instigation by the person instigated, it is immaterial whether the crime actually committed is the same as that instigated or not, or whether the crime is committed in the manner suggested or not; provided in either case that the facts constituting the crime actually committed are a probable consequence of carrying out the instigation. In any such case the instigator is deemed to have himself committed the crime actually committed.

6. Accessories after the fact: When wives and husbands not so

(1) A person who receives or assists another who is, to his knowledge, guilty of a crime, in order to enable him to escape punishment, is said to become an accessory after the fact to such crime.

(2) A married woman does not become an accessory after the fact to a crime of which her husband is guilty, by receiving or assisting him in order to enable him to escape punishment; nor by receiving or assisting, in her husband's presence and by his authority, another person who is guilty of a crime in the commission of which her husband has taken part, in order to enable that other person to escape punishment; nor does a husband become accessory after the fact to a crime of which his wife is guilty by receiving or assisting her in order to enable her to escape punishment.

Chapter III - Application of Criminal Law

7. Effect of changes in statute law

(1) No person shall be punished as for a crime if at the time of his trial the act or omission with which he is charged no longer constitutes a crime.

(2) If the law in force when a crime was committed differs from that in force at the time of the conviction therefor, the offender shall not be punished to any greater extent than was authorized by the former law, or than is authorized by the latter law.

9. Instigation in this State of crimes committed elsewhere

(1) Any person who in this State instigates another to do an act or make an omission outside this State, which act or omission would constitute a crime on his part both in this State, if done or made by him here, and in the place where it occurs, if done or made by him there – is guilty of the same crime as if he had himself done the act or made the omission in this State, but the punishment shall not exceed that provided by the law in force in the place where the act or omission was done or made.

(2) No person shall be prosecuted under the provisions of this section except at the request of the Government of the State having jurisdiction where such act or omission is done or made.

10. Military and naval forces

Officers and men of the military and naval forces are at all times subject to the provisions of the Code.

11. Person not to be twice punished for same crime

Where a person is punishable under the Code, and also under any other statute, or under 2 or more sections of the Code or of any other statute, he may be tried and punished under the Code or such other statute or under either of such sections, as the case may be; but he shall not be punished twice in respect of the same act or omission, unless his act or omission renders him guilty of unlawfully causing the death of any person, and such death occurs after he has been once punished.

Chapter IV - Criminal Responsibility

12. Ignorance of law

The fact that an offender is ignorant of the law is not an excuse for any offence committed by him, but it may be relevant to the question whether or not an act or omission which would constitute an offence if accompanied by a certain intention or state of mind was in fact accompanied by that intention or state of mind.

13. Intention and motive

(1) No person shall be criminally responsible for an act, unless it is voluntary and intentional; nor, except as hereinafter expressly provided, for an event which occurs by chance.

(2) Except as otherwise expressly provided, no person shall be criminally responsible for an omission, unless it is intentional.

(3) Any person who with intent to commit an offence does any act or makes any omission which brings about an unforeseen result which, if he had intended it, would have constituted his act or omission some other offence, shall, except as otherwise provided, incur the same criminal responsibility as if he had effected his original purpose.

(4) Except where it is otherwise expressly provided, the motive by which a person is induced to do any act or make any omission is immaterial.

14. Mistake of fact

Whether criminal responsibility is entailed by an act or omission done or made under an honest and reasonable, but mistaken, belief in the existence of any state of facts the existence of which would excuse such act or omission, is a question of law, to be determined on the construction of the statute constituting the offence.

14A. Mistake as to consent in certain sexual offences

(1) In proceedings for an offence against section 124, 125B, 127, 127A or 185, a mistaken belief by the accused as to the existence of consent is not honest or reasonable if the accused –

(a) was in a state of self-induced intoxication and the mistake was not one which the accused would have made if not intoxicated; or

(b) was reckless as to whether or not the complainant consented; or

(c) did not take reasonable steps, in the circumstances known to him or her at the time of the offence, to ascertain that the complainant was consenting to the act.

(2) In proceedings for an offence of attempting to commit an offence against section 124, 125B, 127A or 185, absence of intention to commit the attempted offence is not a defence if it is established that the absence of intent was due to –

(a) self-induced intoxication; or

(b) a failure to take reasonable steps in the circumstances known to the accused at the time of the offence to ascertain that the complainant would have consented to the act constituting the offence against section 124, 125B, 127A or 185.

15. Presumption of sanity

Every person is presumed to be of sound mind, and to have been of sound mind at any time which comes in question, until the contrary is proved.

16. Insanity

(1) A person is not criminally responsible for an act done or an omission made by him –

(a) when afflicted with mental disease to such an extent as to render him incapable of –

(i) understanding the physical character of such act or omission; or

(ii) knowing that such act or omission was one which he ought not to do or make; or

(b) when such act or omission was done or made under an impulse which, by reason of mental disease, he was in substance deprived of any power to resist.

(2) The fact that a person was, at the time at which he is alleged to have done an act or made an omission, incapable of controlling his conduct generally, is relevant to the question whether he did such act or made such omission under an impulse which by reason of mental disease he was in substance deprived of any power to resist.

(3) A person whose mind at the time of his doing an act or making an omission is affected by a delusion on some specific matter, but who is not otherwise exempted from criminal responsibility under the foregoing provisions of this section, is criminally responsible for the act or omission to the same extent as if the fact which he was induced by such delusion to believe to exist really existed.

(4) For the purpose of this section the term mental disease includes natural imbecility.

17. Intoxication

(1) The provisions of section 16 shall apply to a person suffering from disease of the mind caused by intoxication.

(2) Evidence of such intoxication as would render the accused incapable of forming the specific intent essential to constitute the offence with which he is charged shall be taken into consideration with the other evidence in order to determine whether or not he had that intent.

(3) Evidence of intoxication not amounting to any such incapacity as aforesaid shall not rebut the presumption that a person intends the natural and probable consequences of his acts.

18. Immature age

(1) No act or omission done or made by a person under 10 years of age is an offence.

(2) No act or omission done or made by a person under 14 years of age is an offence unless it be proved that he had sufficient capacity to know that the act or omission was one which he ought not to do or make.

(3) A male person under 7 years of age is conclusively presumed to be incapable of having sexual intercourse.

19. Judicial officers

A judicial officer is not criminally responsible for anything done or omitted to be done by him in good faith in the exercise of his judicial functions, although the act done is in excess of his judicial authority, or although he is bound to do the act omitted to be done.

20. When compulsion a defence

(1) Except as provided by section 64, compulsion by threats of immediate death or grievous bodily harm, from a person actually present at the commission of the offence, shall be an excuse for the commission, by a person subject to such threats, and who believes that such threats will be executed, and who is not a party to any association or conspiracy the being a party to which rendered him subject to compulsion, of any offence other than treason, murder, piracy, offences deemed to be piracy, attempting to murder, rape, forcible abduction, aggravated armed robbery, armed robbery, aggravated robbery, robbery, causing grievous bodily harm, and arson.

(2) A married woman shall be in the same position as regards compulsion by her husband as if she were unmarried.

21. Execution of sentences, process, and warrants to arrest or detain declared lawful

(1) It is lawful for a person who is charged by law with the duty of executing or giving effect to the lawful sentence of a court, and for every person lawfully assisting him, to execute or give effect to that sentence.

(2) It is lawful for a person who is charged by law with the duty of executing the lawful process of a court, and who is required to arrest or detain another person under such process, and for every person lawfully assisting a person so charged, to arrest or detain that other person according to the terms of the process.

(3) It is lawful for a person who is charged by law with the duty of executing a lawful warrant issued by any court or justice or other person having jurisdiction to issue it, and who is required to arrest or detain another person under such warrant, and for every person lawfully assisting a person so charged, to arrest or detain that other person according to the directions of the warrant.

(4) It is lawful for a police officer who is charged by law with the duty of executing a lawful warrant issued by any court or justice or other person having jurisdiction to issue it, and who is required to arrest or detain a person under that warrant, to arrest or detain that person in accordance with section 301(4) and (5).

22. Erroneous sentence or process or warrant

If a sentence was passed or process issued by a court having jurisdiction under any circumstances to pass such a sentence or to issue such a process, or if a warrant was issued by a court or justice or other person having authority under any circumstances to issue such a warrant, it is immaterial whether the court or justice or person had or had not authority to pass the sentence or issue the process or warrant in the particular case, unless the person executing the same knows that the sentence or process or warrant was in fact passed or issued without authority.

23. Sentence or process or warrant without jurisdiction

A person who executes or assists in executing any sentence, process, or warrant which purports to be passed or issued by a court or justice or other person, and who would be justified in executing the same if it had been passed or issued by a court, justice, or person having authority to pass or issue it, is not criminally responsible for any act done in such execution, notwithstanding that the court or justice or person had no authority to pass the sentence or issue the process or warrant, if in such execution he acted in good faith and in the belief that the sentence, process, or warrant was that of a court or justice, or other person having such authority.

24. Arrest in good faith of wrong person

(1) A person who, being duly authorized to execute a warrant to arrest one person, arrests another person, believing in good faith and on reasonable grounds that the person arrested is the person named in the warrant, is not criminally responsible for doing so to any greater extent than if the person arrested had been the person named in the warrant.

(2) Any person called upon to assist in any such arrest who assists therein, and any person required to receive and detain persons lawfully arrested who receives or detains such person, in the belief in any of such cases that such person is the person named in the warrant, is not criminally responsible to any greater extent than if the person arrested had been the person named in the warrant.

25. Irregular process or warrant

When any process or warrant is bad in law by reason of some defect in substance or in form apparent on the face of it, a person who, in good faith and believing that it is good in law, acts in the execution of the process or warrant, is not criminally responsible for anything done in such execution to any greater extent than if the process or warrant were good in law.

26. Force used in executing process or in arrest

(1) It is lawful for any person who is justified or protected in the execution of any sentence, process, or warrant, or in making an arrest, to use such force as may be reasonably necessary to overcome any force used in resisting such execution or arrest.

(2) It is lawful for a person who is justified or protected from criminal responsibility in the execution of any sentence, process, or warrant, to cause such damage to property as he may believe in good faith and on reasonable grounds to be necessary for the purpose of effecting such execution.

26A. Entry on premises for purposes of arrest

(1) A police officer may enter (using reasonable force if necessary), remain on and search premises, including a conveyance –

(a) on or in which the police officer has reasonable grounds for believing that a person named in a warrant for arrest is present; or

(b) for the purpose of making an arrest without warrant if lawful to do so.

(2) Before entering any premises pursuant to subsection (1), a police officer must communicate or attempt to communicate to a person within the premises the police officer's authority to enter the premises unless the police officer reasonably believes that communicating or attempting to communicate would be likely to endanger any person or frustrate the arrest.

27. Arrest without warrant

- (1) It is lawful for a police officer to arrest without warrant any person whom he finds committing a crime.
- (2) In any case where any of the crimes specified in Appendix A has been committed it is lawful for a police officer to arrest without warrant any person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have committed such crime.
- (3) In any case where a police officer believes on reasonable grounds that any of the crimes specified in Appendix A has been committed it is lawful for him to arrest without warrant any person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have committed such crime.
- (4) It is the duty of every person to arrest without warrant any person whom he finds committing any of the crimes in Appendix A.
- (5) In any case where any of the crimes specified in Appendix B has been committed it is lawful for any person to arrest without warrant any person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have committed such crime.
- (6) It is lawful for any person to arrest without warrant any person whom he sees committing a breach of the peace or whom he believes on reasonable grounds to be about to commit or renew a breach of the peace.
- (7) It is lawful for any person who finds another lying or loitering in any place by night under such circumstances as to afford reasonable grounds for believing that he has committed, or is about to commit, a crime, and who does in fact so believe, to arrest him without warrant.
- (8) It is lawful for any person to arrest without warrant any person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have committed a crime, and to be escaping from, and to be freshly pursued by, some person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have authority to arrest him for that offence.
- (9) In every case under this section in which it is lawful for a police officer to arrest any person it is his duty to do so.
- (10) It is lawful for a police officer or the person in command of an aircraft to arrest without warrant on board that aircraft a person whom he finds committing, or attempting to commit, or whom he believes on reasonable grounds to have committed, or to have attempted to commit, a crime under Chapter XXXIA.
- (11) It is lawful for any person to assist the person in command of an aircraft to arrest without warrant any other person on board the aircraft unless he knows the arrest to be illegal.
- (12) The power of a police officer to arrest a person under this section is subject to the limits imposed on the power to arrest by section 24 of the Youth Justice Act 1997.

28. Duty to assist police to make arrests

In any case where any person is called upon by a police officer to assist him in making an arrest it is the duty of such person to assist such officer therein, unless such person knows the arrest to be illegal.

29. Saving of statutory powers

Nothing in the Code shall take away or diminish any authority given by any other statute to arrest, detain, or put restraint upon any person.

30. Police officer preventing escape from arrest

(1) Where a police officer is proceeding lawfully to arrest a person, with or without warrant, and the person sought to be arrested takes to flight in order to avoid arrest, it is lawful for the police officer, and for any person lawfully assisting him, to use such force as may be reasonably necessary to prevent the escape of the person sought to be arrested.

(2) Where a police officer has lawfully arrested any person, it is lawful for him to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to prevent the escape or rescue of the person so arrested.

(3) This section shall not authorize the use of force which is intended or is likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm, except in a case where the person sought to be arrested is suspected on reasonable grounds of having committed any of the crimes specified in Appendix B, nor until the person sought to be arrested has been called upon to surrender.

31. Other cases of preventing escape from arrest

(1) It is lawful for any person who is proceeding lawfully to arrest another person to use such force as may be reasonably necessary to prevent his escape.

(2) This section shall not authorize the use of force which is intended or is likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

32. Preventing escape or rescue after arrest

(1) Where any person has lawfully arrested another person it is lawful for him to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to prevent the escape or rescue of the person arrested.

(2) This section shall not authorize the use of force which is intended or is likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

33.

34. Suppression of riot

(1) It is lawful for any person to use such force as is necessary to suppress a riot, and is reasonably proportioned to the danger to be apprehended from the continuance of the riot.

(2) It is lawful for a police officer to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary in order to suppress a riot, not being disproportioned to the danger which he believes on reasonable grounds is to be apprehended from the continuance of the riot.

35. Suppression of riot by magistrates and police officers

It is lawful for a sheriff or justice to use or order to be used such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary in order to suppress a riot, not being disproportioned to the danger which he believes on reasonable grounds is to be apprehended from the continuance of the riot.

36. Suppression of riot by person acting under lawful orders

(1) It is lawful for any person acting in good faith in obedience to an order, not manifestly unlawful, given by a sheriff or justice for the suppression of a riot, to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary for carrying such order into effect.

(2) It is a question of law whether any particular order is manifestly unlawful or not.

37. Suppression of riot by person acting without order in case of emergency

Where any person, whether subject to military law or not, believes on reasonable grounds that serious mischief will arise from a riot before there is time to procure the intervention of a sheriff or justice, it is lawful for him to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary for the suppression of the riot, not being disproportioned to the danger which he believes on reasonable grounds is to be apprehended from the continuance of the riot.

38. Riot: Persons subject to military law

(1) It is lawful for a person who is bound by military law to obey the lawful commands of his superior officer to obey any command given him by such officer for the suppression of a riot, unless the command is manifestly unlawful.

(2) It is a question of law whether any particular command is manifestly unlawful or not.

39. Prevention of certain crimes

It is lawful for any person to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary in order to prevent the commission of a crime, the commission of which would be likely to cause immediate and serious injury to any person or property, or in order to prevent any act being done which he believes on reasonable grounds would, if done, amount to any such crime.

39A. Detention, &c., of persons in aircraft

(1) It is lawful for a police officer or the person in command of an aircraft, where he considers it necessary so to do in order to prevent the commission of a crime under Chapter XXXIA or to avoid danger to the safety of the aircraft or of persons on board the aircraft –

(a) to place or keep a person who is on board the aircraft under restraint or in custody; and

(b) if the aircraft is not in motion, to remove a person from the aircraft.

(2) It is lawful for any person to assist a police officer or the person in command of an aircraft in the exercise of the powers conferred by subsection (1).

39B. Search of aircraft, &c.

(1) If the person in command of an aircraft or a person authorized in writing in a particular case by a justice believes on reasonable grounds that an offence involving the safety of an aircraft has been, is being, or may be committed on board or in relation to an aircraft he may search or cause to be searched –

(a) the aircraft and any person, luggage, or freight on board the aircraft; and

(b) any person who is about to board the aircraft and any luggage or freight that is about to be placed on board the aircraft.

(2) It is lawful for any person to assist the person in command of an aircraft or authorized in accordance with subsection (1) in the exercise of the powers conferred by that subsection.

(3) Nothing in this section authorizes the search of a female otherwise than by a female.

40. Defence of dwelling-house

It is lawful for any person who is in peaceable possession of a dwelling-house, and for any person lawfully assisting him or acting by his authority, to use such force as the person using the same believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to prevent the forcible breaking and entering of the dwelling-house by any person whom he believes on reasonable grounds to be attempting to break or enter the dwelling-house with intent to commit any crime therein, or to eject therefrom any person who has unlawfully entered the dwelling-house, and whom he believes on reasonable grounds to intend to commit a crime therein.

41. Defence of premises against trespasses: Removal of disorderly persons

It is lawful for a person who is in peaceable possession of any land, structure, vessel, or place, or who is entitled to the control or management of any land, structure, vessel, or place, and for any person lawfully assisting him or acting by his authority, to use such force as the person using the same believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to prevent any person from wrongfully entering upon such land, structure, vessel, or place, or to remove therefrom a person who wrongfully remains therein or conducts himself therein in a disorderly manner; provided that any such force is not intended and is not likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

42. Defence of possession of real property with claim of right

It is lawful for a person in peaceable possession of any land or structure, with a claim of right, and for any person lawfully assisting him or acting by his authority, to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to defend his possessions against any person whether entitled by law to the possession of the property or not, provided that such force is not intended and is not likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

43. Defence of movable property against trespassers

It is lawful for any person in peaceable possession of any movable property, and for any person lawfully assisting him or acting by his authority, to use such force as he believes on reasonable grounds to be necessary to resist the taking of such property by a trespasser, or to retake it from a trespasser; provided that such force is not intended and is not likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm to the trespasser.

44. Defence of movable property with claim of right

It is lawful for a person in peaceable possession of any movable property under a claim of right, and for any person lawfully assisting him or acting by his authority, to use such force as is necessary to defend his possession of the property against any person whether entitled by law to possession thereof or not; provided that such force is not intended and is not likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

45. Retaking movable property under claim of right from person without claim of right

It is lawful for a person entitled by law to the possession of movable property to take it from a person who is in possession of the property, but who neither claims right to it nor acts by the authority of a person so claiming, and if the person in possession resists him, to use such force as is necessary to obtain possession of the property; provided that such force is not intended and is not likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

46. Self-defence and defence of another person

A person is justified in using, in the defence of himself or another person, such force as, in the circumstances as he believes them to be, it is reasonable to use.

50. Domestic discipline

It is lawful for a parent or a person in the place of a parent to use, by way of correction, any force towards a child in his or her care that is reasonable in the circumstances.

51. Surgical operations

(1) It is lawful for a person to perform in good faith and with reasonable care and skill a surgical operation upon another person, with his consent and for his benefit, if the performance of such operation is reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances.

(2) In the case of a child too young to exercise a reasonable discretion in such a matter, such consent as aforesaid may be given by his parent or by any person having the care of such child.

(3) In the case of a person in such a condition as to be incapable of giving such consent as aforesaid, such operation may be performed without such consent.

52. Excessive force

A person authorized by law to use force is criminally responsible for any excess, according to the nature and quality of the act which constitutes such excess.

53. Consent to injuries

No person has a right to consent to the infliction –

(a) of death upon himself;

(b) except as provided in section 51, of an injury likely to cause death; or

(c) of a maim for any purpose injurious to the public – and any consent given in contravention hereof shall have no effect as regards criminal responsibility.

54. Liability of husband and wife for offences committed by either with respect to the other's property

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2), no married person shall be convicted of any offence alleged to have been committed by him or her during cohabitation with respect to the property of the other spouse.

(2) Every such person as aforesaid shall be criminally responsible for any offence committed with respect to any such property when leaving or deserting or about to leave or desert the other spouse; and for any offence committed with intent to defraud any person other than such spouse.

(3) . . . . .

55. Liability of married persons generally

Except as hereinbefore expressly provided, a married person incurs the same criminal responsibility in respect of his or her acts and omissions as if such person were unmarried.

PART II - Crimes Against Public Order

Chapter V - Treason and Other Crimes Against the Sovereign's Person and Authority

56. Treason

Any person who –

- (a) kills the King, or does him any bodily harm tending to his death, or maim or wounding, or imprisonment or restraint;

is guilty of a crime, which is called treason, and is liable to imprisonment for the term of the person's natural life or for such other term as the Court determines.

Charge:

Treason.

57. Accessories after fact guilty of treason

Every person who is an accessory after the fact to treason shall be guilty of treason; but no such person shall be tried for knowingly comforting or receiving a traitor till such traitor has been convicted.

58. Concealment of treason

Any person who, knowing that any person has committed, or having reasonable grounds for believing that any person intends to commit, treason, does not give information thereof with all reasonable despatch to a justice, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Failing to give information of treason.

59. Treasonable crimes

Any person who forms an intention to effect any of the following purposes:

(a) to depose the King from the style, honour, and royal name of the Imperial Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or of any other of His Majesty's dominions;

(b) to levy war against the King within any part of his dominions in order by force or constraint to compel the King to change his measures or counsels, or in order to put any force or constraint upon, or in order to intimidate or overawe, any House of Parliament of any of His Majesty's dominions; or

(c) to instigate any foreigner to make an armed invasion of any of His Majesty's dominions – and manifests such intention by any overt act, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Manifesting a treasonable intention.

60. Evidence of treason: Limitation of time in treason charges

(1) No one shall be convicted of treason (unless he pleads guilty) except upon the evidence of 2 witnesses to one overt act of the kind of treason with which he is charged, or upon the evidence of one witness to one such act and one other witness to another such act.

(2) No one shall be liable to be indicted or tried for treason unless the indictment is filed within 3 years next after the crime was committed.

(3) The provisions of this section shall apply only to treason other than by killing His Majesty, or cases where the overt act alleged is any attempt to injure his person in any manner whatever, every of which crimes may be proved by the like evidence as any other crime.

61. Overt acts

For the purposes of this chapter –

(a) every act of conspiring with any person to effect any intention mentioned in this chapter;

(b) every act done in furtherance of such purpose by any of the persons so conspiring;

(c) the writing of any words expressive of such intention; and

(d) the speaking of any such words if accompanied by or explanatory of any act in furtherance of such intention – shall be deemed to be an overt act manifesting such intention.

62. Inciting traitorous conduct

Any person who advisedly attempts to effect any of the following purposes:

(a) to seduce any person serving in His Majesty's forces by sea or land from his duty and allegiance to His Majesty; is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Falsifying evidence as a shorthand writer.

102. Compounding crimes

(1) Any person who solicits, receives, or obtains, or agrees to receive or obtain, any property or benefit of any kind for himself or any other person, as a consideration for any agreement or understanding that he will compound or conceal a crime, or will abstain from, discontinue, or delay a prosecution for a crime, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Compounding a crime.

(2) This section shall not apply to any case of common assault or defamation of a private person, or to any case where the court in which any proceedings have been taken in respect of the crime compounded shall have sanctioned any such agreement as aforesaid.

103. Compounding penal actions

Any person who, having brought, or under pretence of bringing, an action against another person upon a penal statute for the recovery of a penalty, compounds the action without the order or consent of the court in which the action is brought, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Compounding a penal action.

104. Bringing fictitious action on penal statute

Any person who, in the name of a fictitious plaintiff, or in the name of a real person but without his authority, brings an action against another person upon a penal statute for the recovery of a penalty, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Bringing a fictitious action on a penal statute.

105. Perverting justice

(1) Any person who has unlawful sexual intercourse with another person who is under the age of 17 years is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Sexual intercourse with a young person under the age of 17 years.

(2) It is a defence to a charge under this section to prove that the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the other person was of or above the age of 17 years.

(3) The consent of a person against whom a crime is alleged to have been committed under this section is a defence to such a charge only where, at the time the crime was alleged to have been committed –

(a) that person was of or above the age of 15 years and the accused person was not more than 5 years older than that person; or

(b) that person was of or above the age of 12 years and the accused person was not more than 3 years older than that person.

(4) This section is to be taken to be in force from 4 April 1924.

(5) Subsection (3) is not a defence to a charge under this section in the case of anal sexual intercourse.

(6) Nothing in subsection (4) impugns or otherwise affects the lawfulness of a conviction arising from conduct that occurred before the commencement of the Criminal Code Amendment (Sexual Offences) Act 1987.

125. Person permitting unlawful sexual intercourse with young person on premises

Any person who –

(a) is the owner or occupier of any premises; or

(b) has, or acts or assists in, the management or control of any premises – and who induces or knowingly permits any person under the age of 17 years to be in or upon the premises for the purposes of having unlawful sexual intercourse with another person is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Permitting unlawful sexual intercourse with a young person on premises.

125A. Maintaining sexual relationship with young person

(1) In this section, unlawful sexual act means an act that constitutes an offence under section 124, 125B, 126, 127, 127A, 133 or 185 whether committed before, on or after the commencement of this section.

(2) A person who maintains a sexual relationship with a young person who is under the age of 17 years, and to whom he or she is not married, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Maintaining a sexual relationship with a young person under the age of 17 years.

(3) An accused person is guilty of having committed an offence under subsection (2) if, during a particular period when the young person was under the age of 17 years –

(a) the accused committed an unlawful sexual act in relation to the young person on at least 3 occasions; and

(b) the young person was not married to the accused.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3) –

(a) it is not necessary to prove the dates on which any of the unlawful sexual acts were committed or the exact circumstances in which any of the unlawful sexual acts were committed; and

(b) the unlawful sexual act that was committed on any one of the occasions need not have been the same as the unlawful sexual act that was committed on each or any of the other occasions.

(5) It is a defence to a charge under subsection (2) to prove that the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the young person was of or above the age of 17 years.

(6) An indictment charging a person with having committed an offence under subsection (2) –

(a) is to specify the particular period during which it is alleged that the sexual relationship between the accused and the young person was maintained; and

(b) is not to contain a separate charge that the accused committed an unlawful sexual act in relation to the young person during that period.

(7) A prosecution for an offence under this section is not to be commenced without the written authority of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

125B. Indecent act with young person

(1) Any person who does any indecent act with, or directed at, another person who is under the age of 17 years is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Indecent act with or directed at a young person under the age of 17 years.

(2) It is a defence to a charge under this section to prove that the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the other person was of or above the age of 17 years.

(3) The consent of a person against whom a crime is alleged to have been committed under this section is a defence to such a charge only where, at the time the crime was alleged to have been committed –

(a) that person was of or above the age of 15 years and the accused person was not more than 5 years older than that person; or

(b) that person was of or above the age of 12 years and the accused person was not more than 3 years older than that person.

125C. Procuring unlawful sexual intercourse with person under 17 years, &c.

(1) In this section –

young person means a person under the age of 17 years.

(2) A person who procures –

(a) a young person to have unlawful sexual intercourse with another person, either in this State or elsewhere; or

(b) another person to have unlawful sexual intercourse with a young person, either in this State or elsewhere –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Procuring unlawful sexual intercourse with young person.

(3) A person who procures –

(a) a young person to commit an indecent act, either in this State or elsewhere; or

(b) another person to do an indecent act with, or directed at, a young person, either in this State or elsewhere –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Procuring indecent act by, or with, young person.

(4) In any case in which it is provided that the consent of a person to the act charged is a defence to a charge under section 124 or 125B, the like consent to an act which is the subject of the alleged procurement given under the like conditions as to the age of the parties is a defence to a charge under this section.

(5) It is also a defence to a charge under this section to prove that the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the young person was of or above the age of 17 years.

125D. Communications with intent to procure person under 17 years, &c.

(1) A person (the "accused person") who makes a communication by any means with the intention of procuring a person under the age of 17 years, or a person the accused person believes is under the age of 17 years, to engage in an unlawful sexual act, either in this State or elsewhere, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Communicating with intent to procure a person under the age of 17 years to engage in an unlawful sexual act.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1) –

unlawful sexual act means an act that would, if committed in relation to a person under the age of 17 years, constitute an offence under section 124, 125B, 126, 127, 127A, 133 or 185.

(3) A person (the "accused person") who makes a communication by any means with the intention of exposing, without legitimate reason, a person under the age of 17 years, or a person the accused person believes is under the age of 17 years, to any indecent material, either in this State or elsewhere, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Making a communication with the intention of exposing a person under the age of 17 years to indecent material.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3) –

indecent material means any indecent film, printed matter, electronic data and any other thing of any kind (including any computer image or depiction).

(5) It is a defence to a charge under this section to prove that –

(a) the person who received the communication, or to whom the communication was directed, was of or above the age of 15 years and the accused person was not more than 5 years older than that person; or

(b) the person who received the communication, or to whom the communication was directed, was of or above the age of 12 years and the accused person was not more than 3 years older than that person; or

(c) the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the other person was of or above the age of 17 years.

(6) Subsections (1) and (3) apply notwithstanding that the person who received the communication, or to whom the communication was directed, was a person of or above the age of 17 years who was represented to the accused person as a person under the age of 17 years with a fictitious identity.

(7) Evidence that the person who received the communication, or to whom the communication was directed, was represented to the accused person as being under the age of 17 years is, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, proof that the accused person believed the person was under that age.

126. Sexual intercourse with person with mental impairment

(1) Any person responsible for the care of a person with a mental impairment who has sexual intercourse with that person is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Sexual intercourse with a person with a mental impairment.

(2) It is a defence to a charge under this section to prove that –

(a) at the time of the act –

(i) the person with the mental impairment consented to the act; and

(ii) the giving of that consent was not unduly influenced by the fact that the person was responsible for the care of the person with the mental impairment; or

(b) at the time of the act, the person was married to, or was in a significant relationship, within the meaning of the Relationships Act 2003, with, the person with the mental impairment.

(3) For the purpose of this section, a person is responsible for the care of a person with a mental impairment if the person provides medical, nursing, therapeutic or educative services to the person with a mental impairment in connection with that mental impairment.

(4) In this section –

mental illness has the same meaning as in the Mental Health Act 1996;

(c) the accused person was a police officer acting in the course of his or her official duties and the accused person's conduct was reasonable, in the circumstances, for the performance of the duties; or

(d) the accused person was acting in the course of his or her official duties in connection with the classification of the material which is the subject of the charge under the Classification (Publications, Films and Computer Games) Act 1995 of the Commonwealth.

(2) It is also a defence to a charge under section 130, 130A, 130C or 130D to prove that the material which is the subject of the charge depicts sexual activity between the accused person and a person under the age of 18 years that is not an unlawful sexual act.

(3) It is also a defence to a charge under section 130C to prove that –

(a) the material which is the subject of the charge came into the accused person's possession unsolicited; and

(b) as soon as the accused person became aware that it was child exploitation material, he or she took reasonable steps to dispose of that material.

(4) For the purposes of this section –

police officer includes –

(a) a member of the Australian Federal Police; and

(b) a member of the police force or service of another State or a Territory of the Commonwealth;

unlawful sexual act means an act that constitutes an offence under section 124, 125B, 126, 127, 127A, 133 or 185.

130F. Forfeiture of child exploitation material, &c.

(1) This section applies if a person is prosecuted for a crime under section 130, 130A, 130B, 130C or 130D.

(2) The court may, if it considers material which is the subject of a charge under any of the sections referred to in subsection (1) to be child exploitation material, order that the material be forfeited to the Crown.

(3) The court may make an order under subsection (2) whether or not the person is convicted of a crime under any of the sections referred to in subsection (1).

(4) If the person is convicted of a crime under any of the sections referred to in subsection (1), the court may also order that any thing used to commit the crime be forfeited to the Crown.

(5) The court may also make any order that it considers appropriate to enforce the forfeiture.

(6) This section does not limit the court's powers under the Crime (Confiscation of Profits) Act 1993 or any other law.

(7) When any material or thing is forfeited to the Crown, the material or thing becomes the Crown's property and may be disposed of or destroyed in such manner as the Attorney-General may direct.

130G. Excluding non-essential persons from court when child exploitation material displayed

(1) When material alleged to be child exploitation material is on display in court, the court may exclude from the court any person who is not an essential person.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), an "essential person" is –

(a) a party, or a person representing a party, to the proceeding in relation to the child exploitation material; or

(b) a Crown Law Officer or a person authorised by a Crown Law Officer; or

(c) the prosecutor; or

(d) a witness giving evidence; or

(e) a person who a witness is entitled to have present in court under the Evidence (Children and Special Witnesses) Act 2001; or

(f) a person whose presence is, in the court's opinion, necessary or desirable for the proper conduct of the proceeding; or

(g) a person who applies to the court to be present and whose presence, in the court's opinion –

(i) would serve a proper interest of the person; and

(ii) would not be prejudicial to the interests of any person under the age of 18 years described or depicted in the child exploitation material, whether or not any person under the age of 18 years can be identified from the child exploitation material.

(3) When forming an opinion under subsection (2)(f) or (g), the court is to consider the public benefit of limiting the number of persons with access to child exploitation material.

(3) Any one who appears to be or acts or behaves as master or mistress, or as the person having the care, government, or management, of any such disorderly house, shall be deemed to be the keeper thereof, and shall be liable to be prosecuted and punished as such, although, in fact, he or she is not the real owner or keeper thereof.

(4) The owner of any house, or any tenant, lessee, or occupier thereof, or of any part thereof, who knowingly permits such house or any part thereof to be kept as a disorderly house shall be liable to be prosecuted and punished as if he were the keeper of such house.

PART V - Crimes Against the Person

Chapter XVI - Duties Relating to the Preservation of Human Life

144. Duty to provide necessities

(1) It is the duty of every person having charge of another, who is unable by reason of age, sickness, unsoundness of mind, detention, or any other cause to withdraw himself from such charge, and who is unable to provide himself with the necessities of life, to provide such necessities for that other person.

(2) It is immaterial how such charge arose.

145. Duty of head of family

It is the duty of every person who, as head of a family, has the charge of a child under the age of 16 years, being a member of his household, to provide the necessities of life for such child.

146. What are necessities in certain cases

For the purposes of sections 144 and 145, the expression necessaries of life shall include medical and surgical aid and medicine.

147. Duty of masters

It is the duty of every person who as a master or mistress has contracted to provide necessary food, clothing, or lodging for any servant or apprentice under the age of 16 years, to provide the same.

148. Delegation of duty

In any case in which a person has authorized another to discharge on his behalf any of the duties mentioned in sections 144, 145, and 147, it is the duty of such other person to discharge such duty; and it is the duty of such first-mentioned person to use reasonable care to ensure the discharge of such duty.

149. Duty of persons doing dangerous acts

(1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2), it is the duty of a person who undertakes to administer surgical or medical treatment to another, or to do any other lawful act of a dangerous character which requires special knowledge, skill, attention, or caution, to employ in so doing a reasonable amount of such knowledge, skill, attention, and caution.

(2) In a case of necessity, and where no person having such knowledge or skill as aforesaid can be procured by reasonable means to do such act, it is lawful for a person not having such knowledge or skill to do such act, but it is his duty to employ in so doing such amount of attention and caution as is reasonable in the circumstances.

150. Duty of persons in charge of dangerous things

It is the duty of every person who has anything in his charge or under his control, or who erects, makes, or maintains anything which, in the absence of precaution or care in its use or management may endanger human life, to take reasonable precautions against, and to use reasonable care to avoid, such danger.

151. Duty to do certain acts

When a person undertakes to do any act, the omission to do which is or may be dangerous to human life or health, it is his duty to do that act.

152. Omission of duty

A person who without lawful excuse omits to perform any of the duties mentioned in this chapter shall be criminally responsible for such omission if the same causes the death of or grievous bodily harm to any person to whom such duty is owed, or endangers his life, or permanently injures his health.

Chapter XVII - Homicide: Suicide: Concealment of Birth

153. Definition of homicide: Killing: When child becomes human being

(1) Homicide is the killing of a human being by another.

(2) Killing is causing the death of a person by an act or omission but for which he would not have died when he did, and which is directly and immediately connected with his death.

(3) The question whether an act is directly and immediately connected with a person's death is a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of each particular case.

(4) A child becomes a human being when it has completely proceeded in a living state from the body of its mother, whether it has breathed or not, and whether it has an independent circulation or not, and whether the navel-string is severed or not.

(5) The killing of any such child is homicide if it dies in consequence of injuries received before, during, or after birth.

(6) . . . . .

(7) . . . . .

154. Special cases of homicide

A person is deemed to have killed another in the following cases where his act or omission is not the immediate, or not the sole, cause of death:

(a) where he causes bodily injury to the other which requires surgical or medical treatment, and such treatment causes death, if such treatment is applied in good faith, and with reasonable knowledge and skill, but not otherwise;

(b) where he causes bodily injury to the other which causes death, though it would not have caused death if the other had submitted to proper treatment or had observed proper precautions;

(c) where by actual violence, or threats, or intimidation of any kind, or by deceit, he causes the other to do an act or make an omission likely to cause death, and which he knows, or ought to have known, the other would be likely to do, and which causes the death of the other;

(d) where by any act or omission he hastens the death of another who is suffering under any disease or injury which would itself have caused death;

(e) where his act or omission causes death, but would not have caused death unless it had been accompanied by the acts or omissions of the person killed or of other persons.

156. Culpable homicide

(1) Homicide may be culpable or not culpable.

(2) Homicide is culpable when it is caused –

(a) by an act intended to cause death or bodily harm, or which is commonly known to be likely to cause death or bodily harm, and which is not justified under the provisions of the Code;

(b) by an omission amounting to culpable negligence to perform a duty tending to the preservation of human life, although there may be no intention to cause death or bodily harm; or

(c) by any unlawful act.

(3) The question what amounts to culpable negligence is a question of fact, to be determined on the circumstances of each particular case.

(4) For the purposes of this chapter it is unlawful –

(a) to cause death in the manner described in section 154(c);

(b) to wilfully frighten a child of tender years; or

(c) to wilfully frighten a sick person knowing such person to be sick.

(5) Homicide that is not culpable is not punishable.

157. Cases in which culpable homicide is murder

(1) Culpable homicide is murder if it is committed–

(a) with an intention to cause the death of any person, whether of the person killed or not;

(b) with an intention to cause to any person, whether the person killed or not, bodily harm which the offender knew to be likely to cause death in the circumstances, although he had no wish to cause death;

(c) by means of any unlawful act or omission which the offender knew, or ought to have known, to be likely to cause death in the circumstances, although he had no wish to cause death or bodily harm to any person;

(d) with an intention to inflict grievous bodily harm for the purpose of facilitating the commission of any of the crimes hereinafter mentioned or the flight of the offender upon the commission, or attempted commission, thereof;

(e) by means of administering any stupefying thing for either of the purposes mentioned in paragraph (d); or

(f) by wilfully stopping the breath of any person by any means for either of such purposes as aforesaid– although, in the cases mentioned in paragraphs (d), (e), and (f), the offender did not intend to cause death, and did not know that death was likely to ensue.

(2) The following are the crimes referred to in paragraph (d) of subsection (1) – Piracy, and offences deemed to be piracy; murder; escape or rescue from prison or lawful custody; resisting lawful apprehension; rape; forcible abduction; robbery with violence; robbery; burglary; arson.

158. Murder

Any person who commits murder is guilty of a crime, and is liable to imprisonment for the term of the person's natural life or for such other term as the Court determines.

Charge:

Murder.

159. Manslaughter

(1) Culpable homicide not amounting to murder is manslaughter.

(2) Any person who commits manslaughter is guilty of a crime.

Manslaughter.

160.

161. Accessory after the fact to murder

Any person who becomes accessory after the fact to murder is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Being accessory after the fact to murder.

162. Written threat to murder

Any person who, knowing the contents thereof, wilfully, and with intent thereby to intimidate or influence any person, causes such person to receive any writing threatening to kill him or any other person, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Threatening to murder.

162A. Failing to report the killing of a person

(1) In this section,

proper authority means any of the following:

(a) a police officer;

(b) a correctional officer within the meaning of the Corrections Act 1997;

(c) a probation officer within the meaning of the Corrections Act 1997;

(d) a Crown Law Officer.

(2) A person is guilty of a crime if he or she –

(a) discovers that another person has been killed; and

(b) fails without reasonable excuse to report that discovery to a proper authority as soon as practicable.

Charge:

Failing to report the killing of a person.

(3) A person is guilty of a crime if he or she –

(a) discovers that another person is being subjected to conduct that, if repeated or continued, is reasonably likely to result in that other person being killed; and

(b) fails without reasonable excuse to report that discovery to a proper authority as soon as practicable.

Charge:

Failing to report the impending killing of a person.

(4) A person is guilty of a crime if he or she –

(a) discovers that the killing of another person is being planned; and

(b) fails without reasonable excuse to report that discovery to a proper authority as soon as practicable.

Charge:

Failing to report the planned killing of a person.

(5) Without limiting the matters that may constitute a reasonable excuse for the purposes of subsection (2), (3) or (4), a person is excused from reporting a discovery to a proper authority under this section if –

(a) the person knows or reasonably suspects that –

(i) another person has already reported the discovery to a proper authority; or

(ii) a proper authority has already made the same discovery; or

(b) reporting the discovery would disclose information that is privileged on the ground of legal professional privilege.

163. Aiding suicide

Any person who instigates or aids another to kill himself is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

164. Medical termination of pregnancy

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 134, 135 or 165, but subject to this section, a person is not guilty of a crime in relation to the termination of a pregnancy which is legally justified.

(2) The termination of a pregnancy is legally justified if –

(a) two medical practitioners have certified, in writing, that the continuation of the pregnancy would involve greater risk of injury to the physical or mental health of the pregnant woman than if the pregnancy were terminated; and

(b) the woman has given informed consent unless it is impracticable for her to do so.

(3) In assessing the risk referred to in subsection (2), the medical practitioners may take account of any matter which they consider to be relevant.

(4) If it is impracticable for the woman to give informed consent, the two medical practitioners referred to in subsection (2)(a) are to make a declaration in writing detailing the reasons why it was impracticable for the woman to give informed consent.

(5) At least one of the medical practitioners referred to in subsection (2)(a) is to specialise in obstetrics or gynaecology.

(6) A legally justified termination can only be performed by a medical practitioner.

(7) Subject to subsection (8), no person is under a duty, whether by contract or by any statutory or other legal requirement, to participate in any treatment, including any counselling authorised by this section, to which the person has a conscientious objection.

(8) Nothing in subsection (7) affects any duty to participate in treatment which is necessary to save the life of a pregnant woman or to prevent her immediate serious physical injury.

(9) In this section –

informed consent means consent given by a woman where –

(a) a medical practitioner has provided her with counselling about the medical risk of termination of pregnancy and of carrying a pregnancy to term; and

(b) a medical practitioner has referred her to counselling about other matters relating to termination of pregnancy and carrying a pregnancy to term;

woman means any female person of any age.

165. Causing death of child before birth

(1) Any person who causes the death of a child which has not become a human being in such a manner that he would have been guilty of murder if such child had been born alive is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

(a) a surgical procedure for a genuine therapeutic purpose; or

(b) a sexual reassignment procedure.

(2) The fact that a surgical procedure is performed as, or as part of, a cultural, religious or other social custom is not, of itself, a genuine therapeutic purpose.

(3) A sexual reassignment procedure is a surgical procedure to give a female, or a person whose sex is ambivalent, the genital appearance of a particular sex.

179. Setting man-traps, &c.

(1) Any person who, with intent to cause death or grievous bodily harm to any person, sets or places, or causes to be set or placed, in any place any spring-gun, man-trap, or other engine calculated to cause death or grievous bodily harm, or knowingly and with such intent allows any such thing to remain so set or placed in any place under his control, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Setting a spring-gun [or man-trap] [or, allowing a spring-gun (or man-trap) to remain set].

(2) This section shall not apply to any gin or trap set for the purpose of catching or destroying vermin; nor to a spring-gun, man-trap, or engine set or maintained only during the night in a dwelling-house for the protection thereof.

180. Unseaworthy ships: Endangering life on ships: Breaches of duty by seamen: Failure to assist vessel in collision

(1) Any person who in any river or inland waters in this State –

(a) causes, or is a party to causing, or be used or employed for the carriage of passengers or goods any ship that is in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered; or is guilty of a crime.

(b) being the master of any such ship, knowingly uses the same –

Charge:

Using an unseaworthy ship.

(2) Any person who, in or upon any ship, does any act with respect to such ship or any part thereof, or omits to perform any duty with respect thereto, knowing in either case that the safety of any person on such ship is or is likely to be thereby endangered, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Endangering life on a ship.

(3) Any master, seaman, or apprentice belonging to any ship who, by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness –

(a) does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship; or

(b) refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board such ship, from immediate danger to life or limb – is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Breach of duty as a seaman.

(4) In every case of collision between 2 vessels it shall be the duty of the master or person in charge of each vessel, if and so far as he can do so without danger to his own vessel, crew, or passengers, if any, to render to the other vessel, her master, crew, and passengers, if any, such assistance as may be practicable and necessary to save them from any danger caused by the collision, and to stay by the other vessel until he has ascertained that she has no need of further assistance; and any person failing, without reasonable cause, to perform any such duty as aforesaid is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Failing to assist vessel in collision.

(5) For the purposes of this section the term ship means a ship employed exclusively in trading or going from place to place in any river or inland waters in this State, or employed in carrying passengers therein.

(6) In any proceedings under subsection (1) it shall be a defence to prove –

(a) that the use of such vessel was reasonable and justifiable under the circumstances; or

(b) that the accused, not being such master as aforesaid, used all reasonable means to ensure the ship being in a seaworthy state when so used.

181. Making and possession of dangerous things

Any person who makes or knowingly has in his possession any explosive substance, or any dangerous or noxious engine, instrument, or thing whatever, with intent by means thereof to commit or for the purpose of enabling any other person by means thereof to commit any crime, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Making [or having in possession] a dangerous thing, with intent to facilitate crime.

Chapter XIX - Assaults

182. Definition of assault

(1) An assault is the act of intentionally applying force to the person of another, directly or indirectly, or attempting or threatening by any gesture to apply such force to the person of another if the person making the attempt or threat has, or causes the other to believe on reasonable grounds that he has, present ability to effect his purpose; or the act of depriving another of his liberty.

(2) Words alone cannot constitute an assault.

(3) An act which is reasonably necessary for the common intercourse of life if done only for the purpose of such intercourse, and which is not disproportionate to the occasion, does not constitute an assault.

(4) Except in cases in which it is specially provided that consent cannot be given, or shall not be a defence, an assault is not unlawful if committed with the consent of the person assaulted unless the act is otherwise unlawful, and the injury is of such a nature, or is done under such circumstances, as to be injurious to the public, as well as to the person assaulted, and to involve a breach of the peace.

183. Aggravated assault

Any person who –

(a) assaults any person with intent to commit a crime, or to resist or prevent the lawful apprehension or detainer of himself or of any other person; or

(b) assaults, resists, or wilfully obstructs any person in the lawful execution of any process against any lands or goods, or in the making of any lawful distress, or with intent to rescue any goods taken under such process or distress –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Aggravated assault.

184. Common assault

Any person who unlawfully assaults another is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Assault.

184A. Assault on pregnant woman

Any person who unlawfully assaults a woman, knowing that woman to be pregnant is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Assault on pregnant woman.

Chapter XX - Rape: Abduction: Stalking

185. Rape

(1) Any person who has sexual intercourse with another person without that person's consent is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Rape.

(2) Proceedings under Part VII of the Justices Act 1959 for the committal of any person for trial by the Supreme Court in respect of a charge under subsection (1) –

(a) shall be heard by a magistrate sitting alone; and

(b) shall be heard in closed court unless the magistrate otherwise directs.

186. Abduction

(1) Any person who, by force, takes away or detains another person against that person's will with intent that the other person be married to, or have sexual intercourse with, any person, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Forcible abduction.

(2) Any person who takes away or detains another person against that other person's will with intent that the other person be married to, or have sexual intercourse with, any person, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Abduction.

188.

189. Abduction of young persons

Any person who unlawfully takes away, or causes to be taken away, an unmarried person under the age of 17 years out of the possession and against the will of a parent of that person or a person having the lawful charge or care of that person, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Abduction of a young person under the age of 17 years.

190. Defences in abduction of young persons

(1) In any proceedings under section 189, it is a defence to prove that the accused person did not know, or did not have reasonable grounds for believing, that the young person was in the lawful charge of the person out of whose possession the young person was taken.

(2) It is not a defence in any proceedings under section 189 –

(a) to prove that the young person suggested or consented to being taken away; or

(b) to prove that the accused person believed on reasonable grounds that the young person was of or above the age of 17 years.

191. Abduction of children: Harboursing an abducted child

(1) Any person who unlawfully, by force or fraud takes away, or decoys or entices away, or detains, any child under the age of 14 years, with intent to deprive any parent, guardian, or other person having the lawful charge or care of such child, of the possession of such child, or with intent to steal any article upon or about the person of such child, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Abduction of a child.

(2) Any person who, with any such intent as aforesaid, receives or harbours any such child, knowing it to have been so taken, decoyed, or enticed away, or detained, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Harboursing an abducted child.

(3) In any proceedings under subsection (1), it shall be a defence to prove that the accused –

(a) acted upon a claim of right to the possession of such child;

(b) is the mother of such child, if the child is illegitimate; or

(c) acted in good faith upon a claim that he is the father of such child, if the child is illegitimate.

191A. Kidnapping

Any person who –

(a) with intent to extort or gain anything from, or procure anything to be done or omitted to be done, by any person, by a demand containing threats of injury or detriment of any kind to be caused to any person (whether by the offender or any other person) if the demand is not complied with, takes or entices away, or detains, the person in respect of whom those threats are made; or

(b) receives or harbours the person in respect of whom the threats referred to in paragraph (a) are made knowing that person to have been taken or enticed away or detained as mentioned therein –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Kidnapping.

192. Stalking

(1) A person who, with intent to cause another person physical or mental harm or to be apprehensive or fearful, pursues a course of conduct made up of one or more of the following actions:

- (a) following the other person or a third person;
- (b) keeping the other person or a third person under surveillance;
- (c) loitering outside the residence or workplace of the other person or a third person;
- (d) loitering outside a place that the other person or a third person frequents;
- (e) entering or interfering with the property of the other person or a third person;
- (f) sending offensive material to the other person or a third person or leaving offensive material where it is likely to be found by, given to or brought to the attention of the other person or a third person;
- (g) publishing or transmitting offensive material by electronic or any other means in such a way that the offensive material is likely to be found by, or brought to the attention of, the other person or a third person;
- (h) using the internet or any other form of electronic communication in a way that could reasonably be expected to cause the other person to be apprehensive or fearful;
- (i) contacting the other person or a third person by postal, telephonic, electronic or any other means of communication;
- (j) acting in another way that could reasonably be expected to cause the other person to be apprehensive or fearful –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Stalking.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1) –

(a) a person pursues a course of conduct if the conduct is sustained or the conduct occurs on more than one occasion; and

(b) if the conduct occurs on more than one occasion, it is immaterial whether the actions that make up the conduct on one of those occasions are the same as, or different from, the actions that make up the conduct on another of those occasions.

(3) A person who pursues a course of conduct of a kind referred to in subsection (1) and so causes another person physical or mental harm or to be apprehensive or fearful is taken to have the requisite intent under that subsection if at the relevant time the person knew, or ought to have known, that pursuing the course of conduct would, or would be likely to, cause the other person physical or mental harm or to be apprehensive or fearful.

(4) Subsection (3) does not apply to a person who, in good faith, pursues a course of conduct of a kind referred to in subsection (1) in the course of performing official duties to –

(a) enforce the criminal law; or

(b) administer an Act; or

(c) enforce a law imposing a pecuniary penalty; or

(d) execute a warrant; or

(e) protect the public revenue.

192A. Extra-territorial operation of offence

(1) If –

(a) a person takes an action referred to in section 192(1)(f), (g), (h), (i) or (j) outside, or partly outside, Tasmania; and

(b) there is a real and substantial link between the action taken and Tasmania –

those provisions apply in relation to the action taken as if it had been taken wholly within Tasmania.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), there is a real and substantial link between the action taken and Tasmania if –

(a) a significant part of the conduct relating to, or constituting, the action occurred in Tasmania; or

(b) where the action was taken wholly or partly outside Tasmania, substantial harmful effects arose in Tasmania.

194.

Chapter XXII - Crimes Relating to Mentally Disordered Persons

195. Illegally receiving, &c., mentally disordered persons

Any person who wilfully and without lawful authority receives into custody or detains any person suffering from mental disorder is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Illegally receiving [or detaining] a mentally disordered person.

Chapter XXIII - Criminal defamation

196. Criminal defamation

(1) A person who, without lawful excuse, publishes matter defamatory of another living person (the "victim") –

(a) knowing the matter to be false or without having regard to whether the matter is true or false; and

(b) intending to cause serious harm to the victim or any other person or without having regard to whether such harm is caused –

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Defamation.

(2) In proceedings for an offence under this section, the accused has a lawful excuse for the publication of defamatory matter about the victim if, and only if, subsection (3) applies.

(3) This subsection applies if the accused would, having regard only to the circumstances happening before or at the time of the publication, have had a defence for the publication if the victim had brought civil proceedings for defamation against the accused.

(4) The prosecutor bears the onus of negating the existence of a lawful excuse if, and only if, evidence directed to establishing the excuse is first adduced by or on behalf of the accused.

(5) On a trial before a jury for an offence under this section –

(a) the question of whether the matter complained of is capable of bearing a defamatory meaning is a question for determination by the judge; and

(b) the question of whether the matter complained of does bear a defamatory meaning is a question for the jury; and

(c) the jury may give a general verdict of guilty or not guilty on the issues as a whole.

(6) A prosecution under this section must not be commenced without the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

(7) In this section –

publish and "defamatory" have the meanings that those terms have in the law of tort (as modified by the Defamation Act 2005) relating to defamation.

197. Proceedings for an offence do not bar civil proceedings

The commencement of criminal proceedings for an offence under section 196(1) does not prevent –

(a) the commencement of civil proceedings for defamation against the accused; or

(b) the determination of the civil proceedings pending the determination of the criminal proceedings.

PART VI - Crimes Relating to Property

Chapter XXIV - Stealing

226. Interpretation

(1) A person who, without the consent of the owner thereof, dishonestly –

(a) takes; or

(b) being lawfully in the possession thereof, either as a servant of the owner or as a bailee or part owner thereof, converts to his own use or to the use of any person other than the owner – anything capable of being stolen, with intent permanently to deprive the owner thereof, steals such thing.

(2) In this chapter –

(a) the term takes includes obtaining possession –

(i) by any trick;

(ii) by intimidation;

(iii) through a mistake on the part of the owner, if the taker knows of such mistake; or

(iv) by finding, if at the time of the finding the taker believes that the owner can be discovered by reasonable means;

(b) the term owner includes any part owner or person having possession or control of, or a special property in, anything capable of being stolen.

(3) A servant who takes anything out of the possession of his master with intent to apply it to his master's use, and who so applies it, or who converts anything belonging to his master to his master's use, does not steal the thing, although such taking or conversion is wrongful.

227. Things capable of being stolen

(1) Every movable thing which is the property of any person is capable of being stolen.

(2) A thing which is attached to or forms part of any real property becomes capable of being stolen as soon as it is completely severed therefrom.

(3) A person shall not acquire any property in the dead body of an animal wild by nature only by reason of such animal dying on his land.

228. Special cases of stealing

A person shall be guilty of stealing a thing, although at the time of taking or converting the same he does not intend permanently to deprive the owner thereof, if he takes or converts it dishonestly and with intent –

(a) to use the same, or to allow any other person to use the same, as a pledge or security;

(b) to use or deal with the same in such manner that it cannot be returned to the owner in the form in which it was when he took or converted it; or

(c) in the case of money, to use it at his own will, although he intends to repay to the owner an equivalent amount of money.

229. Stealing by agent

(1) Any person who –

(a) being entrusted either solely or jointly with any other person with any property in order that he may retain in safe custody or apply, pay or deliver, for any purpose or to any person, the property or any part thereof or any proceeds thereof; or

(b) having either solely or jointly with any other person received any property for or on account of any other person – dishonestly converts to his own use or benefit, or to the use or benefit of any other person, the property or any part thereof, or any proceeds thereof, is deemed to steal the property so converted.

(2) For the purposes of this section, if it be part of the terms on which such property is so entrusted or received that the same, or the proceeds thereof, shall form an item in a debtor and creditor account between the person receiving the same, and the person to whom he is to account for or pay the same, and that such last-mentioned person shall rely only on the personal liability of the other as his debtor in respect thereof, the proper entry of any part of such proceeds in such account shall be deemed a sufficient accounting for the part of the proceeds so entered.

(3) A factor or agent shall not be guilty of stealing by pledging or giving a lien on any goods or document of title to goods entrusted to him for the purpose of sale or otherwise if such pledge or lien is for any sum of money not exceeding the amount due to him from his principal at the time of pledging or giving a lien on the same, together with the amount of any bill of exchange or promissory note accepted or made by him for or on account of his principal.

(4) The provisions of subsection (1) shall not apply to or affect any trustee under any express trust created by a deed or will or any mortgagee of any property, real or personal, in respect of any act done by the trustee or mortgagee in relation to the property comprised in or affected by such trust or mortgage.

230. Stealing by person holding power of attorney

Any person who, being entrusted, either solely or jointly with any other person, with any power of attorney for the sale, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition of any property, real or personal, dishonestly sells, mortgages, pledges, or otherwise disposes of the same or any part thereof, or dishonestly converts the proceeds of any sale, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition of such property, or any part of such proceeds, to some purpose other than that for which he was entrusted with such power of attorney, shall be deemed to have stolen the property so mortgaged, pledged, or disposed of, or converted, if the same is capable of being stolen, or money to the value thereof if otherwise.

231. Stealing by misappropriation

(1) Any person who, having received, either solely or jointly with any other person, any money or valuable security, or any other property, with a direction express or implied that such money or any part thereof, or the proceeds or any part of the proceeds of such security or property, shall be applied to any purpose or paid to any person specified in such direction, in violation of good faith and contrary to such direction, dishonestly applies to any other purpose, or pays to any other person, such money or proceeds or any part thereof, shall be deemed to have stolen the property so applied or paid.

(2) Where the person receiving such money, security, or power of attorney, and the person from whom he receives it, deal with each other on such terms that all money paid to the former would in the absence of any such direction be properly treated as an item in a debtor and creditor account between them, this section shall not apply unless such direction is in writing.

232. Assisting married persons to take property

Any person who, while a husband and wife are living together, assists either of them in doing, with respect to the property of the other, any act which would constitute stealing if they were not married, knowing that such property is being so dealt with, is deemed to steal such property.

233. Stealing electricity

Any person who dishonestly or wantonly abstracts, takes, uses, diverts, or causes to be diverted or wasted, any electricity or electric current the property of any other person, is deemed to steal the same.

234. Stealing

Any person who steals anything is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Stealing.

Chapter XXV - Crimes Analogous to Stealing

235. Unlawfully dealing with registers and records

Any person who wilfully and unlawfully conceals or destroys any public register or record required to be kept under the provisions of any public general statute or with intent to defraud, removes the same from its proper place of deposit, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Unlawfully dealing with a register [or record].

236. Unlawfully dealing with wills and documents of title

Any person who retains, conceals, cancels, or destroys the whole or any part of any will or other testamentary instrument (whether the testator is living or dead), or of any document which is evidence of title to any property, or of any encumbrance over or dealing with any land, with intent to defraud, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Unlawfully dealing with a testamentary instrument [or document of title].

237. Killing animals with intent to steal

Any person who kills any animal with intent to steal the same or any part thereof is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Killing an animal with intent to steal.

238. Severing with intent to steal

Any person who severs anything attached to, or forming part of, any real property with intent to steal the same or any part thereof is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Severing with intent to steal.

239. Unlawfully branding animals

Any person who unlawfully brands any animal with a brand registered under any Act with intent to defraud is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Unlawfully branding an animal.

Chapter XXVI - Robbery and Extortion

240. Robbery, &c.

(1) A person who steals anything and, immediately before, at, or immediately after the time of stealing that thing, uses or threatens to use violence to any person or property in order to obtain that thing or to prevent or overcome resistance to the stealing of that thing is guilty of a crime which is called robbery.

Charge:

Robbery.

(2) A person who commits robbery and –

(a) is in company with any other person or persons at the time of committing that robbery; or

(b) causes bodily harm to any person immediately before, at, or immediately after the time of committing that robbery – is guilty of a crime which is called aggravated robbery.

Charge:

Aggravated robbery.

(3) A person who commits robbery and is armed with a firearm or other dangerous or offensive weapon or instrument at the time of committing that robbery is guilty of a crime which is called armed robbery.

Charge:

Armed robbery.

(4) A person who commits aggravated robbery and is armed with a firearm or other dangerous or offensive weapon or instrument at the time of committing that robbery is guilty of a crime which is called aggravated armed robbery.

Charge:

Aggravated armed robbery.

241. Blackmail

(1) Any person who, with a view to temporary or permanent gain for himself or for any other person or with intent to cause temporary or permanent loss to any other person, makes any unwarranted demand with menaces, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Blackmail.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1) –

(a) a demand with menaces is unwarranted unless the person making it does so in the belief that –

(i) he has reasonable grounds for making the demand; and

(ii) the use of the menaces is a proper means of reinforcing the demand; and

(b) the nature of the act or omission that constitutes a demand is immaterial, and it is also immaterial whether the menaces relate to action to be taken by the person making the demand.

242. Demanding with menaces with intent to steal

Any person who, with menaces or by force, demands of any person anything capable of being stolen with intent to steal the same, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Demanding property with menaces with intent to steal.

Chapter XXVII - Burglary and Like Crimes

243. Interpretation

(1) The crime of burglary is a crime committed in relation to the places to which this chapter applies.

(2) Subject to this section, any building or conveyance is a place to which this chapter applies.

(3) References in this chapter to a building shall be construed as including references to –

(a) any structure or erection attached to or resting on the ground or any other building; and

(b) any building, structure, or erection that is in the course of construction or erection or that is partly demolished.

(4) For the purposes of this chapter a conveyance means any vehicle, vessel, or aircraft, or any other contrivance intended for the carriage of persons or property over land or water or in the air, but does not include anything intended to be carried by a person or propelled by a person walking.

(5) Where a conveyance is not intended to be moved or has become incapable of being moved, whether by reason of any alteration thereto or otherwise, it nevertheless remains a place to which this chapter applies so long as it is ordinarily used for the purposes of human habitation or for the keeping of property, whether the person having a habitation in it or any property is there or not.

(6) For the purposes of this chapter but without affecting the generality of the provisions thereof a tent shall be deemed an erection and a caravan a conveyance.

(7) Where this chapter applies to any place, any part of that place shall be deemed also to be a place to which this chapter applies.

(8) For the purposes of this chapter a person shall be deemed to have entered a place to which this chapter applies when entry thereto is made by the whole or any part of his body or by the whole or any part of any instrument or object that he has with him or that is used by him for the purpose of –

(a) gaining entry to that place;

(b) abstracting or taking anything therefrom or attempting so to do; or

(c) committing any crime therein.

244. Burglary

Any person who enters any place to which this chapter applies as a trespasser, or by means of any threat, artifice, or collusion, with intent to commit a crime therein, is guilty of a crime, which is called burglary.

Charge:

Burglary.

245. Aggravated burglary

Any person who commits burglary and –

(a) at the time he or she commits that burglary –

(i) has with him or her any offensive weapon or instrument or any explosive substance; or

(ii) . . . . .

(iii) the place in relation to which the burglary is committed is being used or is ordinarily used for the purposes of human habitation; or

(b) uses or offers violence to any person, deprives any person of his or her liberty or otherwise assaults any person–

(i) while committing that burglary; or

(ii) while he or she is still in or is leaving the place in relation to which the burglary was committed—is guilty of a crime which is called aggravated burglary.

Charge:

Aggravated burglary.

246.

247.

248. Being armed, &c., with intent to commit a crime

Any person who is found —

(a) armed with any dangerous or offensive weapon or instrument, with intent to commit a crime;

(b) having in his possession without lawful excuse any instrument for making an entry into a place to which this chapter applies;

(c) having his face masked or blackened, or being otherwise disguised, with intent to commit a crime; or

(d) in any place to which this chapter applies with intent to commit a crime therein —

is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Being found prepared for the commission of a crime.

Chapter XXVIII - False Pretences, Cheating, and Frauds Concerning Titles

249. Interpretation

In this chapter —

false pretence means a false representation of fact, made by words or otherwise, which the person making it knows to be false or does not believe to be true; but does not include —

(a) a promise as to future conduct not intended to be kept, unless such promise is based upon a fact falsely alleged to exist, or implies the existence of a fact which does not exist;

(b) untrue commendation or untrue depreciation of an article, unless such untrue commendation or untrue depreciation is made by means of a definite false assertion as to some matter of fact capable of being positively determined;

obtain means an obtaining by the offender from the owner, with an intent on the part of the offender to deprive the owner permanently and entirely of the thing obtained, and it includes cases in which things are obtained by a contract which is obtained by false pretence, unless the obtaining under the contract is merely remotely connected with the false pretence.

250. Obtaining goods by false pretences

Any person who by any false pretence, and with intent to defraud, obtains from any person anything capable of being stolen, or induces any person to deliver to any person anything capable of being stolen, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Obtaining goods by a false pretence.

251. Obtaining execution of a security by false pretences

Any person who by any false pretence, and with intent to defraud, induces any person to execute, make, accept, indorse, alter, or destroy the whole or any part of any valuable security, or to write, impress, or affix any name or seal upon or to any paper or parchment, in order that it may be afterwards made or converted into or used or dealt with as a valuable security, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Obtaining execution of a valuable security by a false pretence.

252. Cheating

Any person who, with intent to defraud, by means of any trick or device, obtains from any person, or induces any person to deliver to any person, anything capable of being stolen, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Cheating.

252A. Acquiring a financial advantage

(1) Any person who by any deception dishonestly acquires for himself or for any other person any financial advantage is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Dishonestly acquiring a financial advantage.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1) deception means any deception (whether deliberate or reckless) by words or conduct as to fact or as to law, including a deception as to the present intentions of the person using the deception or of any other person.

253. Fraud in respect of payment for work

Any person who unlawfully, and without claim of right takes, removes, or conceals anything capable of being stolen, with intent thereby to obtain for himself or for any person not lawfully entitled thereto, any payment for work done in respect of such thing, or with intent to deprive of any such payment any person entitled to the same, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Fraud in respect of payment for work.

254. Fraud on sale or mortgage of property

(1) If –

(a) a person does an act or thing referred to in sections 257B to 257E (both inclusive) outside, or partly outside, Tasmania; and

(b) there is a real and substantial link within the meaning of subsection (2) between doing the act or thing and Tasmania –

those sections apply in relation to that act or thing as if it had been done wholly within Tasmania.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), there is a real and substantial link with Tasmania –

(a) if a significant part of the conduct relating to, or constituting, the doing of the act or thing occurred in Tasmania; or

(b) where the act or thing was done wholly outside Tasmania or partly within Tasmania, if substantial harmful effects arose in Tasmania.

Chapter XXIX - Receiving Stolen Property and Rewards for Recovery Thereof

258. Receiving stolen property

(1) Any person who, without lawful excuse, receives or has in his possession any stolen property, knowing it to be stolen property, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Receiving stolen property.

(2) For the purposes of the Code, stolen property shall include anything capable of being stolen which has been obtained in this State or elsewhere under circumstances which constitute, or which, if they had occurred in this State would constitute, a crime under any of the provisions of chapters XXIV to XXVII or of this chapter, but shall not include any such thing which, after having been so obtained, has been returned to its owner, or to which any person has acquired a lawful title completed by delivery.

(3) In any proceedings under this section –

(a) the fact that the accused had in his possession other stolen property which had been obtained as aforesaid within 12 months preceding the date of his alleged crime; and

(b) the fact that within 3 years preceding his being charged with the crime the accused had been convicted of a crime under any of the provisions of chapters XXIV to XXVII or of this chapter – may be given in evidence against the accused in support of the averment of guilty knowledge.

(4) The facts mentioned in paragraph (b) of subsection (3) shall not be admissible unless –

(a) 7 days' notice in writing has been given to the accused of the intention to prove such fact; and

(b) evidence has previously been given that the stolen property in respect of which the accused is charged was found or had been in his possession.

259. Taking rewards for stolen property

Any person who corruptly takes or agrees to take any reward, directly or indirectly, under pretence or on account of helping any person to recover any stolen property, is (unless he has used all due diligence to cause to be brought to trial the person who stole or obtained such property) guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Corruptly taking a reward for recovery of stolen property.

Chapter XXX - Frauds by Trustees and Company Officers: False Accounting: Secret Commissions

260. Fraudulent dealing by trustees

(b) Fraud against a company as an officer [or member] [or contributory].

262. False statements by promoters and officers of companies

Any person being –

(a) a director, officer, or auditor of a company; or

(b) engaged or interested in the formation, flotation, or registration of any body of persons as a company – who makes, circulates, or publishes, or is privy to making, circulating, or publishing, any written statement or account which is to his knowledge false in any material particular, with intent to deceive or defraud any member or creditor of such company, or to induce any person, whether a particular person or not, to become a member of such company or to apply for any share in such intended company, or to entrust or advance any property to such company, or to any person for any such intended company, or to enter into any security for the benefit of such company or intended company, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Fraudulent statement as a promoter [or officer] of a company.

263. Defence

(1) In any proceedings under any of the foregoing provisions of this chapter it shall be a defence to prove that the accused person, before being charged with the crime, and in consequence of the compulsory process of a court of justice in an action or proceeding instituted in good faith by a party aggrieved, or in a compulsory examination or deposition before a court of justice, disclosed on oath the act alleged to constitute the crime.

(2) In any such proceedings as aforesaid a statement or admission made by any person in any compulsory examination or deposition before any court on the hearing of any matter in bankruptcy or in any statement verified by oath filed for the purposes of any such matter, or in any compulsory examination in the winding-up of a company, shall not be admissible in evidence against such person.

(3) No person shall be entitled to refuse to answer any question or interrogatory in any civil proceeding in any court, on the ground that his doing so might tend to show that he had committed any crime under the foregoing provisions of this chapter.

264. Fraudulent false accounting

Any person, being a clerk or servant, or being employed or acting in the capacity of a clerk or servant, who, with intent to defraud –

(a) destroys, alters, mutilates, or falsifies any book, document, valuable security or account, which belongs to or is in the possession of his employer, or has been received by him on account of his employer, or any entry in any such book, document, or account, or is privy to any such act; or

(b) omits or is privy to omitting any material particular from any such book, document, or account – is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Fraud as a clerk or servant.

265. False accounting by public officer

Any public officer charged with the receipt, custody, or management of any part of the public revenue or property who knowingly furnishes any false statement or return of any money or property received by him or entrusted to his care, or of any balance of money in his possession or under his control, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Falsely accounting as a public officer.

266. Secret commissions, &c.

(1) Any person who –

(a) corruptly gives or agrees to give, or offers to an agent, or to any other person on his behalf; or

(b) being an agent, corruptly solicits, receives, obtains, or agrees to accept for himself or any person other than his principal – any gift or consideration as an inducement or reward for doing or forbearing to do, or for having done or forborne to do, any act in relation to the principal's affairs or business, or for showing or forbearing to show favour or disfavour to any person in relation to the same, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Corruption in relation to business.

(2) Any person who knowingly gives to an agent, or any agent who knowingly receives or uses with intent to deceive his principal, any receipt, account, or other document in respect of which his principal is interested, or which relates to any dealing, transaction, or matter in which his principal is interested, and which contains any statement which is false or erroneous, or defective in any material particular, is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Charge:

Falsely acknowledging a liability [or an instrument].

Chapter XXXIV - Fraudulent Debtors

292. Interpretation

For the purposes of this chapter an insolvent means a person who has been adjudged bankrupt, or whose affairs are in course of liquidation by arrangement under the law relating to bankruptcy, and who, in either case, has not been granted a discharge; and the insolvency of such a person shall be deemed to commence on the date of the order of adjudication, or of the resolution that his affairs be liquidated by arrangement, as the case may be; and bankruptcy petition includes a petition for liquidation by arrangement.

293. Crimes by insolvents

An insolvent shall, in each of the cases following, be guilty of a crime:

(a) If he does not, to the best of his knowledge and belief, fully and truly discover to the trustee all his property, real and personal, and how and to whom, and for what consideration and when, he disposed of any part thereof, except such part as has been disposed of in the ordinary way of his trade, if any, or laid out in the ordinary expense of his family, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, failing to make full discovery of property;

(b) If he does not deliver up to the trustee, or as he directs, all such part of his real and personal property as is in his custody or under his control, and which he is required by law to deliver up, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, failing to deliver up property;

(c) If he does not deliver up to the trustee, or as he directs, all books, documents, papers, and writings in his custody or under his control relating to his property or affairs, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, failing to deliver up documents;

(d) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within 6 months next before such presentation, he conceals any part of his property, to the value of $20 or upwards, or conceals any debt due to or from him, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, concealing property [or liabilities];

(e) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within 6 months next before such presentation, he fraudulently removes any part of his property to the value of $20 or upwards.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, fraudulently removing property;

(f) If he makes any material omission in any statement relating to his affairs, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, making fraudulent statement of affairs;

(g) If, knowing or believing that a false debt has been proved by any person under the insolvency, he fails for the period of a month to inform the trustee thereof.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, failing to inform trustee of false claim;

(h) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he prevents the production of any book, document, paper, or writing affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless he proves that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, preventing production of documents;

(i) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within 6 months next before such presentation, he conceals, destroys, parts with, mutilates, alters, makes any omission in, or otherwise falsifies, or is privy to the concealment, destruction, parting with, mutilation, alteration, omission in, or falsification of any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless he proves that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, fraudulently dealing with documents;

(j) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within 6 months next before such presentation, he makes or is privy to the making of any false entry in any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless he proves that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs, or to defeat the law.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, making a false entry;

(k) If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or at any meeting of his creditors within 6 months next before such presentation, he attempts to account for any part of his property by alleging fictitious losses or expenses.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, alleging fictitious losses [or expenses];

(l) If, within 6 months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, by any false representation or other fraud, has obtained any property on credit and has not paid for the same.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, obtaining credit by fraud;

(m) If, within 6 months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he obtained under the false pretence of carrying on business, and, if a trader, of dealing in the ordinary way of his trade, any property on credit and has not paid for the same, unless he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, obtaining credit by false pretence;

(n) If, within 6 months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he pawns, pledges, or disposes of any property which he has obtained on credit and has not paid for, unless, in the case of a trader, such pawning, pledging, or disposing is in the ordinary way of his trade, and unless in any case he proves that he had no intent to defraud.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, fraudulently disposing of property obtained on credit;

(o) If he is guilty of any false representation or other fraud for the purpose of obtaining the consent of his creditors or any of them to an agreement with reference to his affairs or to his insolvency.

Charge:

Being an insolvent, fraudulently misleading creditors.

294. Concealing insolvency

An insolvent who –

(a) either alone or jointly with any other person obtains credit to the extent of $20 or upwards from any person without informing that person that he is an insolvent; or

(b) engages in any trade or business under a name other than that under which he became an insolvent without disclosing to all persons with whom he enters into any business transactions the name under which he became an insolvent – shall be guilty of a crime.

Charge:

(a) Being an insolvent, obtaining credit without disclosing insolvency.

(b) Being an insolvent, changing trade name, without disclosing former name.

295. Incurring losses by speculation: Failing to account for losses

(1) An insolvent who, having been engaged in any trade or business, and having outstanding at the date of the commencement of his insolvency any debts contracted in the course and for the purposes of such trade or business –

(a) has, within 2 years prior to the presentation of the bankruptcy petition, materially contributed to or increased the extent of his insolvency by gambling or by rash and hazardous speculations, and such gambling or speculations are unconnected with his trade or business;

(b) has, between the date of the presentation of the petition and the date of his becoming an insolvent, lost any part of his estate by such gambling or rash and hazardous speculations as aforesaid; or

(c) on being required by the trustee at any time, or by the court, in the course of his public examination, to account for the loss of any substantial part of his estate incurred within a period of a year next preceding the date of his becoming an insolvent, he fails to give a satisfactory explanation of the manner in which such loss was incurred – shall be guilty of a crime.

Charge:

(a) Being an insolvent incurring losses by speculation.

(b) Being an insolvent incurring losses by speculation.

(c) Being an insolvent, failing to account for losses.

(2) In determining for the purposes of this section whether any speculations were rash and hazardous, the financial position of the accused person at the time when he entered into the speculations shall be taken into consideration.

(3) A prosecution shall not be instituted against any person under this section except by order of the Supreme Court, nor where the insolvency occurs within 2 years from 1st April 1924.

296. Frauds on creditors

(1) If any person –

(a) in incurring any debt or liability has, with intent to defraud, obtained credit by a false pretence or by means of any other fraud;

(b) with intent to defraud his creditors or any of them, has made or caused to be made any gift or transfer of, or charge on, his property; or

(c) with intent to defraud his creditors or any of them, has concealed or removed any part of his property since, or within 2 months before, the date of any unsatisfied judgment or order for payment of money obtained against him – he shall be guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Fraud on a creditor.

(2) For the purposes of this section a person who obtains a judgment against any such person shall be deemed to have been a creditor at the date on which any such act as aforesaid is alleged to have been done, if the suit or action in which such judgment is obtained had been instituted at that date.

PART VIII - Conspiracies and Crimes Relating to Other Crimes

Chapter XXXV - Conspiracies: Inciting: Attempts: Accessories

297. Conspiracy

(1) Any person who conspires with another –

(a) to kill any person, whether a subject of His Majesty or not, and whether he is in this State or elsewhere, under circumstances which, if he were killed in this State, would constitute murder;

(b) to obstruct, prevent, pervert, or defeat the due course of justice, or the administration of the law, whether such purpose is to be effected in this State or elsewhere;

(c) to commit any crime;

(d) to cheat or defraud the public, or any particular person, or class of persons;

(e) to extort, by any means, any property whatever from any person;

(f) to inflict by any unlawful means any injury or harm upon the public, or any particular person or class of persons;

(g) to facilitate the seduction of a woman;

(h) to do any act involving, and known to be likely to involve, public mischief; or

(i) to do any act without lawful justification or excuse with intent thereby to injure any person – is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Conspiracy.

(2) A husband and wife are not criminally responsible for any conspiracy between themselves only.

(3) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of the Trades Unions Act 1889.

298. Inciting to commit crimes

Any person who incites another to commit a crime is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Inciting to commit [specify particular crime].

299. Attempts to commit crimes

Any person who attempts to commit a crime is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Attempting to commit [specify particular crime].

300. Accessories after the fact

Any person who becomes an accessory after the fact to any crime is guilty of a crime.

Charge:

Being an accessory after the fact to [specify particular crime].

PART IX - Procedure

Chapter XXXVI - Duties as to Arrest and Detainer

301. Duty of persons arresting

(1) It is the duty of a person executing any process or warrant to have it with him, and to produce it if required.

(2) It is the duty of a person arresting another, whether with or without warrant, to give notice, if practicable, of the process or warrant under which he is acting, or of the cause of the arrest.

(3) A failure to fulfil either of the aforesaid duties shall not of itself deprive the person executing the process or warrant or making the arrest, or his assistants, of protection from criminal responsibility, but shall be relevant to the question whether the process or warrant might not have been executed or the arrest made by reasonable means in a less forcible manner.

(4) Notwithstanding subsection (1), a police officer may arrest a person, whether or not the police officer has a warrant for the arrest of that person in his or her possession at the time of making the arrest, if the police officer has reasonable grounds for believing that a warrant for the arrest has been issued in relation to that person.

(5) If a police officer arrests a person under subsection (4), the police officer must, as soon as practicable –

- (a) deliver that person into the custody of an officer in charge of a police station; and
  - (b) produce or cause to be produced to the person taken into custody the warrant or a certified facsimile of the warrant.
- (6) If a person is delivered into the custody of an officer in charge of a police station under subsection (5), it is lawful for the officer in charge of the police station to detain the person until the warrant or certified facsimile of the warrant is produced to that person.
- (7) The warrant is taken to be executed at the time at which the warrant or certified facsimile of the warrant is produced in accordance with subsection (5) to the person taken into custody.
- (8) For the purposes of this section, a certified facsimile is a facsimile that contains in the text printed from the facsimile machine –
- (a) a statement signed by the person using the machine to send the facsimile that the person has seen the original warrant and that the facsimile is a copy of the original warrant; and
  - (b) a statement specifying the time that the facsimile was sent.
- (9) A certified facsimile of a warrant may be used to execute the original warrant for a period not exceeding 8 hours from the time when the certified facsimile is sent by the facsimile machine.

302. Duties of police officers

It is the duty of every police officer to arrest any person against whom an accusation has been made to him of having committed a crime for which he may be arrested without warrant, unless he has reasonable grounds for believing such accusation to be without foundation.

303. Duties after arrest

- (1) . . . . .
- (2) It is the duty of every police officer to receive into custody any person arrested by a private person and charged with an offence.

Chapter XXXVII - Bail: Trial by Magistrate

304. Bail: Procedure on application for bail

- (1) The Supreme Court may admit to bail any person who has been committed for trial, or is in custody, upon a charge of a crime, although bail has been previously refused to such person.
- (2) An application under this section may be made to a judge in chambers upon summons. A copy of such summons shall be served upon the Director of Public Prosecutions.

(3) .....

(4) .....

305. Appeal as to bail to Court of Criminal Appeal or Full Court

(1) An accused person who is aggrieved by –

(a) an order of a judge of the Supreme Court refusing bail; or

(b) a condition imposed by a judge of the Supreme Court to which an order for bail is subject – may appeal to –

(c) the Court of Criminal Appeal in a case where that person is bound to appear before that Court; or

(d) the Full Court of the Supreme Court, in any other case.

(1A) A Crown Law Officer may appeal –

(a) an order of a judge of the Supreme Court admitting a person to bail; or

(b) a condition imposed by a judge of the Supreme Court to which an order admitting a person to bail is subject, or the failure to impose any such condition –

to –

(c) the Court of Criminal Appeal in a case where the person in respect of whom the order is made is bound to appear before that Court; or

(d) the Full Court of the Supreme Court, in any other case.

(2) An appeal under subsection (1) or subsection (1A) is to be by way of a venire de novo.

306.

307. Place of trial

(1) A person charged with committing a crime may be tried at any place in the State at which sittings of the Supreme Court in its criminal jurisdiction are appointed to be held.

(2) In any case in which the court or a judge orders that an accused person shall be tried at any place other than that at which he has been committed to take his trial, every recognizance, whether of bail or otherwise, conditioned for the appearance of any person at the trial of such accused person, shall be deemed to have reference to the time and place mentioned in such order.

(3) Notice of any such order as aforesaid shall be given as may be prescribed to all persons bound by any such recognizances, and upon proof that such notice has been duly given any such recognizance may be forfeited if the condition thereof has not been observed as herein provided.

307A. Change in place of trial

(1) A person against whom a crime is alleged to have been committed under chapters XIV or XX, before the trial starts, may make application to a judge to change the place of the trial in respect of that crime.

(2) A judge may at his discretion grant or refuse an application made under subsection (1).

(3) Where a judge grants an application to change the place of a trial, the provisions of subsections (2) and (3) of section 307 apply as if the judge made an order under that section.

(4) Where the place of a trial is changed pursuant to this section, the accused person is entitled to compensation by the Crown for any reasonable additional costs which he may incur by reason of the change in the place of the trial.

(5) For the purposes of determining whether the additional costs referred to in subsection (4) are reasonable, a judge may obtain the assistance of the Registrar of the Supreme Court.

308. Trial before magistrate

(1) In any case in which it appears to a judge that the punishment provided in this section will be adequate for the circumstances of the particular case, he may order that the accused shall be tried summarily before a magistrate as hereinafter provided.

(2) Any such order as aforesaid may provide for the time and place of trial, and for admitting the accused person to bail, and the provisions of section 307 shall apply to any recognizances in any such cases in the same manner as if such order were made under that section.

(3) Where in any case any such order as aforesaid is made, the magistrate hearing such case in pursuance thereof shall, for the purposes of the conduct of the trial of the accused, have the powers and jurisdiction of a judge on the trial of an accused person upon indictment.

(4) A magistrate to whom the trial of any person has been remitted under the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction of the accused person, have power to inflict a sentence of a fine not exceeding 20 penalty units or imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year.

(5) No order shall be made for the imprisonment for non-payment of any fine imposed under the provisions of this section for any term exceeding 6 months.

(6) In any case in which the trial of an accused person has been so remitted as aforesaid, to the magistrate before whom he was committed for trial, he may be tried upon the depositions taken upon his committal for trial, and such other evidence as may be adduced upon either side.

(7) An order shall only be made under subsection (1) on an application made to a judge in chambers or in an open court, and no such application shall be made otherwise than by, or with the consent of, the accused person.

(8) . . . . .

(9) Every conviction and sentence made or imposed under the provisions of this section shall be subject to appeal in the same manner in every respect as a conviction or sentence in the Supreme Court, and for the purposes of any such appeal the magistrate before whom the accused person was so tried as aforesaid shall be deemed to be the judge of the court of trial.

309. Arrest of accused in certain cases

(1) In any case in which an indictment has been presented against any person who has not been committed for trial, and in any case in which any accused person does not attend to be tried upon an indictment, a judge may issue a warrant under his hand for the arrest of such person.

(2) In any such case the person so arrested shall be held to take his trial, but may in a proper case be granted bail in the meantime.

Chapter XXXVIII - Indictments

310. Indictments

(1) When a person charged with a crime has been committed for trial and it is intended to put him on his trial therefor, the charge is to be reduced to writing in a document called an indictment.

(2) An indictment shall be signed by a Crown Law Officer and filed in the Supreme Court.

(3) A Crown Law Officer may file an indictment against any person for a crime whether he has been committed for trial or not.

(4) Before filing an indictment a Crown Law Officer shall satisfy himself that there is evidence against the defendant sufficient to put him on his trial or to raise a strong or probable presumption of his guilt.

311. Form and contents of indictments

(1) An indictment shall be intituled "In the Supreme Court of Tasmania", with the addition of the name of the place of trial, and shall contain and be sufficient if it contains a statement of the specific crime or crimes with which the accused person is charged, together with such particulars as may be necessary for giving reasonable information as to the nature of the charge.

(2) Except as provided in section 125A(6), charges of more than one crime may be joined in the same indictment, if those charges arise substantially out of the same facts or closely related facts, or are, or form part of, a series of crimes of the same or a similar character. In any other case an indictment shall charge one crime only.

(3) . . . . .

(4) The statement of the crime charged in an indictment, or where more than one crime is charged in the same indictment, the statement of each crime, with the particulars thereof, shall be set out in a separate paragraph, called a count.

(5) Where an indictment contains more than one count the counts shall be numbered consecutively.

(6) Where there are more counts than one in an indictment each count shall be regarded as a separate indictment.

312. Statement of crimes

(1) The statement of a crime in an indictment shall describe the crime shortly, in ordinary language, avoiding as far as possible the use of technical terms, and without necessarily stating all the essential elements of the crime.

(2) The words following the word "Charge" at the foot of any section or subsection of the Code or of any statute, together with a reference to such section or subsection, shall be a sufficient statement of a crime under that section or subsection.

313. Charge against accessories

Where a person is to be charged with attempting to commit, or with inciting, instigating, aiding, or abetting the commission of, or as an accessory after the fact to, a crime, it shall be sufficient to use the charge appropriate to such crime, with such additional words as will indicate that such person is charged with attempting to commit, or inciting, instigating, aiding, or abetting the commission of, or as an accessory after the fact to, such crime.

314. Particulars

(1) After the statement of the crime particulars of such crime shall be set out in ordinary language, avoiding as far as possible the use of technical terms.

(2) Where any statute limits the particulars of a crime which are required to be given in an indictment, nothing in this section shall require any more particulars to be given than those so required.

(3) The omission of any fact from the particulars shall not vitiate the count to which they are appended if the particulars are sufficient to describe with reasonable clearness the nature of the charge.

315. Alternative statements

(1) Where an enactment constituting a crime states the crime to be the doing or the omission to do any one of any different acts in the alternative, or the doing or the omission to do any act in any different capacities, or with any one of any different intentions, or states any part of the offence in the alternative, the acts, omissions, capacities, or intentions or other matters stated in the alternative in the enactment may be stated in the alternative in the count charging the crime.

(2) This section shall not be construed to authorize the statement of more than one crime in one count.

316. Acts must be established

Nothing in this chapter shall affect or diminish in any respect the obligation to establish by evidence according to law any acts or omissions or intentions which are legally necessary to constitute the crime with which the accused person is charged, or otherwise affect the law of evidence in criminal cases.

317. Forms of indictment

(1) An indictment shall conform as nearly as may be to the forms set out in Appendix C, the statement of the crime and the particulars thereof being varied according to the circumstances of each particular case. Figures and abbreviations may be used in an indictment for expressing anything which is commonly expressed thereby.

(2) The forms of indictment set forth in Appendix C shall be taken as a guide as to what particulars are necessary.

318. General rule as to description

(1) It shall be sufficient to describe any place, time, matter, act, or omission whatsoever to which it is necessary to refer in any indictment in ordinary language in such a manner as to indicate the same with reasonable clearness.

(2) In any case in which the time or place at which any crime is alleged to have been committed cannot be stated precisely, it shall be sufficient to state the same as nearly as may be practicable.

(3) In an indictment in which it is necessary to mention money, such money may be described simply as money, without specifying any particular form of money.

318A. Indictments for burglary, &c.

Subject to section 318 it is not necessary in an indictment for a crime under Chapter XXVII to specify whether the place in relation to which the crime is alleged to have been committed is any particular kind of place or to describe the nature or any of the characteristics of that place.

319. Statements in proceedings for perjury

In an indictment for a crime which relates to giving false testimony, or procuring or attempting to procure the giving of false testimony, it is not necessary to allege the jurisdiction of the court or tribunal before which the false testimony was given, or intended or proposed to be given, or to set forth the proceedings or any part of the proceedings in the course of which the crime is alleged to have been committed.

320. Proof of obtaining money by false pretence, &c.

In an indictment for obtaining property by a false pretence, or for stealing by a clerk or servant, or person acting in the capacity of a clerk or servant, an averment as to obtaining or stealing money shall be sustained by proof that the accused obtained or converted any coin or bank note, or any part of the value of either, although such coin or note was delivered to him in order that some part of the value thereof should be returned to the person who delivered the same or to some other person, and has been returned accordingly.

321. Description of property

The description of property in an indictment shall be in ordinary language, and such as to indicate with reasonable clearness the property referred to, and if the property is so described it shall not be necessary, except when required for the purpose of describing a crime depending on any special ownership of property or special value of property, to name the person to whom the property belongs or the value of the property.

322. Statement of ownership of property

Where property is vested in more than one person and the owners of the property are referred to in an indictment, it shall be sufficient to describe the property as owned by one of those persons, naming him, with the addition of the words "and another", or "and others", and if the persons owning the property are a body of persons with a collective name, such as – "The Trustees of the property of the Grand Lodge of Tasmania", "The Tasmanian Racing Club", (or the like) – it shall be sufficient to use the collective name without naming any individual.

323. Description of persons

The description and designation in an indictment of the accused person, or of any other person to whom reference is made therein, shall be such as is reasonably sufficient to identify him without necessarily stating his correct name, or his abode or occupation; and if for any reason it is impracticable to give such a description or designation, such description or designation shall be given as is reasonably practicable in the circumstances, or such person may be described as "a person unknown".

324. Description of document

Where it is necessary to refer to any seal or die or document or instrument in an indictment, it shall be sufficient to describe it by any name or designation by which it is usually known, or by the purport thereof, without setting out any copy thereof.

325. Statement of intent

It shall not be necessary in stating any intent to defraud, deceive, or injure, to state an intent to defraud, deceive, or injure any particular person where the statute creating the offence does not make an intent to defraud, deceive, or injure a particular person an essential ingredient of the crime.

326. Amendment of indictment: Power to order separate trial

(1) Where, before trial or at any stage of the trial, it appears to a judge that the statement of the crime or the particulars, or the name or description of any person or thing mentioned therein is or are defective or erroneous, he shall make such order for the amendment of the indictment as he thinks necessary to meet the circumstances of the case, unless, having regard to the merits of the case, the required amendment cannot be made without injustice.

(2) Where an indictment is so amended a note of the order for amendment shall be endorsed on the indictment, and the indictment shall be treated for the purposes of the trial and of all proceedings in connection therewith as having been filed in its amended form.

(3) Where, before trial or at any stage of the trial, it appears to a judge that an accused person may be prejudiced or embarrassed in his defence by reason of being charged with more than one crime in the same indictment, or that for any other reason it is desirable to direct that he should be tried separately for any one or more crimes charged in the indictment, the judge may order a separate trial of any count or counts in such indictment.

(4) Where, before the trial or at any stage of the trial, it appears to a judge that the postponement of the trial of the accused person is expedient as a consequence of the exercise of any power of a judge under this section to amend an indictment, or to order the separate trial of a count, the judge shall make such order as to postponement of the trial as appears necessary.

(5) Where an order is made for a separate trial or for the postponement of a trial –

(a) if such order is made during the trial the judge may order that the jury are to be discharged from giving a verdict on count or counts the trial of which is postponed or on the indictment, as the case may be;

(b) the procedure on the separate trial of a count shall be the same in all respects as if it had been charged in a separate indictment, and the procedure on the postponed trial shall be the same in all respects (if the jury have been discharged) as if the trial had not commenced; and

(c) the judge may make such order as to admitting the accused person to bail, and as to the enlargement of recognizances and otherwise, as the circumstances of the case may require.

(6) The power conferred by this section shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other power of the court for the same or similar purposes; and may before trial be exercised upon summons by a judge in chambers.

327. Pleadings

The provisions of this chapter shall, so far as the same are applicable thereto, apply to all criminal pleadings, subject to any modifications which may be made by rules under the Code.

328. Duty to furnish copy of indictment, &c.

Upon the application of a person against whom an indictment has been filed the Crown Law Officer filing such indictment shall supply such person, 2 clear days at least before the day of trial, with a copy of the indictment and a copy of the jury panel free of charge; and shall permit such person, upon his trial, to inspect, free of charge, all depositions taken against him and forwarded to the Attorney-General.

329. Particulars in indictments for treason

(1) The particulars contained in an indictment for treason must state the overt act or acts of the treason alleged; and no evidence of any overt act not stated therein shall be admissible unless it is relevant as tending to prove any overt act so stated.

(2) No indictment for treason shall be amended by the addition of any overt acts not so stated as aforesaid.

(3) A person indicted for treason shall be served, in the presence of 2 credible witnesses, with a copy of the indictment against him and with a list setting forth the full names and the addresses and occupations of all jurors summoned for his trial, 10 days at least before his arraignment.

330. Parties to crimes

(1) Any number of persons who are alleged –

(a) to be parties within the meaning of the Code to the same crime (notwithstanding that some other party or parties to that crime is or are not included in the indictment or is or are not amenable to justice); or may be joined in the same indictment and tried together or separately.

(b) to have committed different crimes arising substantially out of the same facts or closely related facts –

(2) Any number of persons who are alleged to have committed perjury or false swearing may be joined in the same indictment and tried together or separately if the statements alleged to be false are alleged to have been made in the same proceedings and before the same tribunal.

(3) Any party to whom subsection (1) relates who is alleged to have instigated, aided, or abetted the commission of a crime may be convicted upon a count charging him with having committed the crime, or upon a count charging him with having instigated, aided, or abetted, as the case may be, the commission thereof.

331. Accessories after the fact

Any number of accessories after the fact to the same crime, though becoming so at different times, or any number of receivers, though at different times, of the same stolen property or of any part or parts thereof, may be joined in the same indictment, and may be tried with the principal offender, or separately, or may be indicted and tried, either together or separately, although the principal offender has not been convicted or is not amenable to justice.

331A. Release from prison if no indictment filed

(1) If –

(a) a person is in a prison, by reason of having been remanded in custody by justices; and

(b) justices have committed that person for trial in the Supreme Court for an indictable offence; and

(c) a Crown Law Officer decides on the evidence before him or her not to file an indictment against that person for that offence –

the Crown Law Officer may issue a warrant to the person in charge of that prison to release that person immediately.

(2) A person in charge of a prison who is provided with a warrant under subsection (1) is to immediately release the person named in the warrant from custody in respect of the offence mentioned in the warrant.

331B. First appearance of defendant in Supreme Court following committal

(1) At the first appearance before the Supreme Court of a defendant committed to the Court on a plea of guilty entered before justices, the Supreme Court is to list the defendant for sentencing on a day fixed by the Court.

(2) At the first or a subsequent appearance before the Supreme Court of a defendant committed to the Court on any plea, other than a plea of guilty –

(a) the defendant or a Crown law officer may apply for an order that the witnesses named in the application give evidence on oath in preliminary proceedings; and

(b) the Court may make such an order; and

(c) the Court is to warn the defendant that he or she may not be permitted at trial to give evidence of an alibi or to call witnesses in support of an alibi unless he or she gives the Director of Public Prosecutions written notice of that alibi and of those witnesses within the time provided in section 368A.

(3) The Supreme Court may only make an order under subsection (2)(b) requiring a witness named in the order to give evidence on oath in preliminary proceedings –

(a) if the defendant, or Crown law officer, in his or her application for the order has identified a matter in respect of which the witness is to be questioned, has specified why the evidence of the witness is relevant to that matter and has specified why cross-examination, or examination, of the witness is justified; and

(b) if, in a case where the witness is an affected person within the meaning of the Justices Act 1959, the Court is satisfied that exceptional circumstances require the witness to give evidence on oath at preliminary proceedings; and

(c) the Court is satisfied that it is necessary in the interests of justice.

(4) An order under subsection (2)(b) –

(a) in respect of a witness who is not an affected person within the meaning of the Justices Act 1959, may limit the matters on which the witness may be examined, cross-examined and re-examined and impose conditions in relation to such examination, cross-examination and re-examination; and

(b) in respect of a witness who is an affected person within the meaning of the Justices Act 1959, must limit the matters on which the witness may be examined, cross-examined and re-examined and may impose conditions in relation to such examination, cross-examination and re-examination.

(5) If the Supreme Court makes an order under subsection (2)(b), the Court is to remand the defendant in custody or admit him or her on bail to appear before justices, at the time and on the day specified in the order.

331C. Jurisdiction of Supreme Court to sentence

If a defendant is committed, by justices in accordance with the Justices Act 1959, to the Supreme Court for sentence, the Supreme Court has jurisdiction over the defendant as if the defendant had appeared and entered the plea to an indictment for the offence in respect of which he or she was committed.

Chapter XXXIX - Powers of Conviction Upon Particular Indictments

332. Alternative convictions

(1) Except as provided in this chapter no person shall on an indictment for a crime be convicted of any other crime.

(2) Where pursuant to this chapter a person may, on indictment for any crime, be convicted of any other crime it is intended that, if the jury find him not guilty of the crime with which he is charged, he may be convicted of that other crime if it is established by the evidence to have been committed by him.

333. Murder

Upon an indictment for murder the accused person may be convicted of –

- (a) manslaughter;

- (d) aggravated sexual assault;
- (e) incest;
- (f) indecent assault; or
- (g) assault.

335A. Abduction

Upon an indictment for forcible abduction or abduction the accused person may be convicted of assault.

336. Sexual intercourse with young person

Upon the indictment of sexual intercourse with a young person under 17 years of age, the accused person may be convicted of –

- (a) sexual intercourse with a person with a mental impairment;
- (b) . . . . .
- (c) indecent assault;
- (d) assault; or
- (e) aggravated sexual assault.

336A. Indecent assault

Upon an indictment for indecent assault the accused person may be convicted of assault whatever may have been the age of the person against whom the offence is alleged to have been committed.

337. Incest

Upon an indictment for incest the accused person may be convicted of –

- (a) sexual intercourse with a young person under 17 years of age;
- (b) sexual intercourse with a person with a mental impairment;
- (c) . . . . .
- (d) indecent assault; or
- (e) aggravated sexual assault.

337A. Aggravated sexual assault

Upon an indictment for aggravated sexual assault, the accused person may be convicted of –

- (a) rape;
- (b) indecent assault; or
- (c) assault.

337B. Maintaining sexual relationship with young person

(1) Subject to subsection (2), upon an indictment for maintaining a sexual relationship with a young person under the age of 17 years the accused person may be convicted of one or more of the following crimes:

- (a) . . . . .
- (b) . . . . .
- (c) sexual intercourse with a young person under the age of 17 years;
- (d) sexual intercourse with a person with a mental impairment;
- (e) . . . . .
- (f) indecent assault;

(g) aggravated sexual assault;

(h) incest;

(i) rape.

(2) The accused person may only be convicted of a crime specified in subsection (1) if the trial judge is satisfied on the evidence adduced at trial that the accused person was capable of being tried on indictment for that crime.

337C. Involving person under 18 years in production of child exploitation material

Upon an indictment for involving a person under the age of 18 years in the production of child exploitation material, the accused person may be convicted of –

(a) producing child exploitation material; or

(b) distributing child exploitation material; or

(c) possessing child exploitation material.

338. Stealing, false pretences, receiving, and cheating

(1) Upon an indictment for –

(a) stealing;

(b) obtaining goods by a false pretence;

(c) cheating;

(ca) dishonestly acquiring a financial advantage; or

(d) receiving stolen property –

the accused person may be convicted of any of such crimes respectively.

(2) Upon an indictment of several persons jointly for receiving stolen property any one of such persons may be convicted separately of receiving the same or any part thereof.

339. Stealing and killing animals with intent to steal

Upon an indictment for stealing an animal the accused person may be convicted of killing such animal with intent to steal it.

339A. Robbery, &c.

Upon an indictment for –

- (a) robbery;
- (b) aggravated robbery;
- (c) armed robbery; or
- (d) aggravated armed robbery –

the accused person may be convicted of –

- (e) any of those crimes; or
- (f) any of the following crimes:
  - (i) stealing;
  - (ii) receiving stolen property;
  - (iii) . . . . .
  - (iv) assault.

340. Principals and accessories after the fact

Upon an indictment for a crime, the accused person may be convicted of being an accessory after the fact to that crime or to any other crime of which, subject to subsection (2) of section 332, he could be convicted on that indictment.

341. Part of charge proved

Every count in an indictment shall be deemed to be divisible, and if the commission of the crime charged, as described in the enactment creating that crime or as charged in the count, involves the commission of any other crime, the person accused may, on that indictment, be convicted of that other crime.

342. Attempts

(1) Upon an indictment for a crime, the accused person may be convicted of attempting to commit that crime or any other crime of which, subject to subsection (2) of section 332, he could be convicted on that indictment.

(2) Where a person is charged in an indictment with an attempt to commit a crime and the evidence establishes that he committed the full crime he may be convicted of that full crime.

(3) Where a person has been convicted of an attempt to commit a crime he is not liable to be tried for the crime of which he was so convicted of having attempted to commit.

342AA. Alternative verdicts

Subject to section 332(2), an accused person charged in an indictment with –

(a) attempting to commit a crime may be convicted of committing or attempting to commit any of the alternative crimes available under this Chapter on an indictment charging the accused person with having committed that crime; or

(b) being an accessory after the fact to a crime or inciting another person to commit a crime may be convicted, respectively, of being an accessory after, or inciting that other person to commit, any of the alternative crimes available under this Chapter on an indictment charging the accused person with having committed that crime.

342A. Incitements

Upon an indictment for a crime, the accused person may be convicted of inciting any person to commit that crime or any other crime of which, subject to subsection (2) of section 332, he could be convicted on that indictment.

343. Indictment for treasonable crimes and inciting mutiny

A person charged with a crime under the provisions of section 59 or of section 62 shall not be acquitted of such crime on the ground that the evidence discloses that he is guilty of treason, but no person acquitted or convicted of such crime shall be afterwards prosecuted for treason upon the same facts.

344. Indictments in respect of unlawful oaths

A person charged with a crime under the provisions of section 63 shall not be acquitted of such crime on the ground that the evidence discloses that he is guilty of a crime under the provisions of section 56 or of section 58, but no person acquitted or convicted of such crime shall be afterwards prosecuted upon the same facts under either of the last-mentioned sections.

Chapter XL - Trial: Adjournment: Pleadings: Practice

345. Right to be tried

(1) A person committed for a trial for a crime may, at any time during the first week of the term, or the first day of the sessions of oyer and terminer and general gaol delivery held after his committal, make application in open court to be brought to trial.

(2) If such person is not indicted within such term or sessions as aforesaid he may, upon the last day of such term or sessions, make application in open court for bail, which the court shall grant, unless it appears upon oath to the court that the witnesses for the Crown could not be produced at the same term or sessions as aforesaid.

(3) If any such person as aforesaid is not indicted during the sessions next after such sessions as aforesaid, he shall, upon his prayer or petition in open court, the first week of the term or the first day of the sessions thereafter, be discharged.

346. Accelerating trial of persons not under committal

When an indictment is filed in the Supreme Court against any person who has not been committed for trial upon the charge set forth in the indictment, and the accused person is not brought to trial within a year after the indictment is so filed, the court may, upon the application of the accused person, order him to be discharged from all proceedings on such indictment.

347. Adjournment of trial

The judge may in any case, if he thinks fit, adjourn the trial of the accused person at any stage thereof, whether a jury has or has not been sworn, and whether evidence has or has not been given, and may, if necessary, discharge the jury.

348. On adjournment of trial accused may be remanded, &c.

(1) In this section –

Chief Forensic Psychiatrist means the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist appointed under section 11A of the Mental Health Act 1996;

secure mental health unit has the same meaning as in the Mental Health Act 1996;

specified means specified in an order under this section that commits an accused person to a secure mental health unit.

(2) When a trial is adjourned, the judge may –

(a) direct the trial to be held either at that or a later sitting of the court; and

(b) either –

(i) remand the accused person accordingly; or

(ii) in a proper case, admit the accused person to bail and, if necessary, enlarge the recognisances of the witnesses.

(3) Instead of remanding the accused person to a gaol or detention centre, or to the custody of the Director of Corrective Services or the Secretary of the responsible Department in relation to the Youth Justice Act 1997, the judge may commit him or her to a secure mental health unit if –

(a) the judge considers that remand is appropriate in the circumstances; and

(b) the accused person appears to be suffering from a mental illness within the meaning of the Mental Health Act 1996; and

(c) the judge considers that the accused person should be admitted to a secure mental health unit for his or her own health or safety or for the protection of others; and

(d) the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist has provided a report to the effect that –

(i) the admission of the accused person to the secure mental health unit is necessary for his or her care or treatment; and

(ii) adequate facilities and staff exist at the secure mental health unit for the appropriate care and treatment of the accused person; and

(iii) in the case of an accused person who has not attained the age of 18 years, the secure mental health unit is the most appropriate place available to accommodate him or her in the circumstances having regard to the objectives and general principles set out in sections 4 and 5 of the Youth Justice Act 1997.

(4) Each of the following persons may apply at any time to the Supreme Court for the variation or revocation of an order under this section that commits an accused person to a secure mental health unit:

(a) the Director of Public Prosecutions;

(b) the Secretary of the responsible Department in relation to the Mental Health Act 1996;

(c) the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist;

(d) the accused person.

(5) The Chief Forensic Psychiatrist must apply to the Supreme Court for the revocation of an order under this section that commits an accused person to a secure mental health unit if the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist is of the opinion that the accused person no longer requires such treatment or would no longer benefit from such treatment.

(6) On hearing an application, the judge –

(a) may vary, revoke or confirm the order committing the accused person to a secure mental health unit; and

(b) if the judge revokes the order, may make any other order he or she could have made under this section.

(7) An application is to be heard and determined within 14 days after it is made.

(8) The Secretary of the responsible Department in relation to the Mental Health Act 1996 may delegate his or her power under subsection (4)(b) to apply for the variation or revocation of an order under this section.

(9) If a judge makes an order under this section that commits a person to a secure mental health unit –

(a) the judge is to specify in the order that the specified person, or a person of the specified class of person, is to be responsible for taking the accused person to the specified secure mental health unit; and

(b) the judge may specify in the order that that or another specified person, or a person of that or another specified class of person, is to be responsible for bringing the accused person from the specified secure mental health unit before the Court in connection with the exercise by the Court of its powers under this Act.

(10) A copy of an order under this section that commits an accused person to a secure mental health unit and the report of the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist are to accompany the accused person to the specified secure mental health unit.

(11) While an accused person is the responsibility of another person as specified in an order that commits the accused person to a secure mental health unit –

(a) that other person has the custody of the accused person; and

(b) the accused person is taken to be a forensic patient for the purposes of the application of relevant provisions of Part 10A of the Mental Health Act 1996.

(12) A judge may make such orders as to the distribution and security of the report provided by the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist as he or she considers necessary or appropriate.

(13) Unless a judge orders otherwise, the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist must give, as soon as practicable, a copy of his or her report to –

(a) the prosecutor; and

(b) the Australian legal practitioner representing the accused person or, if the accused person is unrepresented, the accused person.

(14) The prosecution or the defence may dispute the whole or any part of the report of the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist.

(15) If the whole or any part of the report of the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist is disputed, a judge must not take into consideration the report or part in dispute unless the party disputing the report or part has had the opportunity –

(a) to lead evidence on the disputed matters; and

(b) to cross-examine on the disputed matters the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist or, if the Chief Forensic Psychiatrist has delegated his or her function of writing the report, the author of the report.

349. Bringing up a prisoner for trial

When any person against whom an indictment has been filed is in prison for any other cause, the court may, by order in writing, without writ of habeas corpus, direct the gaoler to bring up the body of such person as often as is required for the purposes of the trial, and the gaoler shall obey such order.

350. *Nolle prosequi

(1) If at any stage of the proceedings upon an indictment a Crown Law Officer informs the court that the Crown will not proceed further upon that indictment –

(a) the judge, if the trial of the accused person has begun and a jury has been sworn, may direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty and thereupon the accused person shall be discharged; or

(ab) the judge, if the trial of the accused person has begun but a jury has not been sworn, may direct that an entry of not guilty be made on the indictment in which case the entry has effect in all respects as if it were the verdict of a jury upon the trial of the accused person on the indictment; or

(b) in the absence of a direction under paragraph (a) or (ab), the accused person shall be discharged from any further proceedings upon that indictment but may be again indicted upon a fresh indictment, subject to the limitation of time, if any, within which proceedings must be instituted.

(2) The accused person shall be charged upon any such fresh indictment at sittings of the court held at the place where he was first charged next after the hearing of such first charge.

351. Arraignment

(1) When an accused person is to be tried he shall be brought to the bar of the court and informed of the crime charged against him as set forth in the indictment; and if he so requires, the indictment shall, subject to the provisions of subsection (2), be read over to him; and he shall be then called upon to plead.

(2) In any case in which a previous conviction is alleged in the indictment the accused person shall in the first place be arraigned on so much of the indictment as charges the subsequent crime, and no reference to such previous conviction shall be then made to the jury, except as provided in subsection (5).

(3) If the accused person pleads, or is found, guilty of such subsequent crime, he shall then, and not before, be asked whether he has been previously convicted as so alleged.

(4) If the accused person denies such previous conviction, or wilfully refuses to answer, or does not answer directly to, such question as aforesaid, the jury shall then be charged to inquire whether he has been so previously convicted or not.

(5) In any such case as aforesaid, if the accused person gives evidence of good character, either by cross-examination or calling witnesses, such previous conviction as aforesaid may be proved before the jury give their verdict upon the charge for the subsequent crime.

(6) The trial shall be deemed to begin when the accused is called upon to plead.

352. Motion to quash indictment

(1) The accused person may before pleading apply to the judge to quash the indictment on the ground that it is calculated to prejudice or embarrass him in his defence to the charge, or that it is formally defective.

(2) Upon such application the judge may quash the indictment, or may order it to be amended in such manner as he thinks just, or may refuse the application.

(3) If at any stage of the trial it appears to the judge that there is any defect in the indictment, and the judge does not see fit to amend it, he may quash the indictment, or may leave the objection to be taken in arrest of judgment.

(4) If an indictment is quashed under the provisions of this section, the accused person is entitled to be discharged from any further proceedings thereon, but he may be again indicted upon a fresh indictment, subject to the limitation, if any, as to the time within which a prosecution must be instituted.

353. Pleading to indictment

If the indictment is not quashed under the provisions of section 352(1), the accused person must

(a) demur to the indictment on the ground that it does not in substance disclose any crime; or that it appears on the face of the indictment that the court has no jurisdiction;

(b) plead to the indictment; or

(c) plead and demur together.

354. Demurrer

(1) If a demurrer pleaded by an accused person is allowed the judgment shall be that the accused person shall be discharged from the premises set forth in the indictment to which such demurrer is pleaded, and he shall be discharged accordingly.

(2) When an accused person demurs only, the judge shall, subject to his power to adjourn the trial, hear and determine the matter forthwith, and if the demurrer is overruled, the accused person shall be called upon to plead to the indictment.

(3) When an accused person pleads and demurs together, it shall be in the discretion of the judge whether the plea or the demurrer shall be determined first.

(4) Every demurrer shall be in writing, and filed with the clerk of the court at the time it is pleaded, and no joinder in demurrer shall be necessary.

355. Pleas

(1) An accused person may plead to an indictment –

(a) that he is guilty of the crime charged in the indictment; or, with the consent of the Crown, of any other crime of which he might be convicted upon such indictment;

(b) that he has already been acquitted or convicted –

(i) of the crime charged in the indictment;

(ii) upon an indictment upon which he might have been convicted of that crime;

(iii) of a crime arising out of the same facts and substantially the same crime as that charged in that indictment;

(iv) of any crime, an acquittal or conviction of which is, under the provisions of the Code, a bar to a prosecution for the crime charged in the indictment; or

(v) summarily, of an offence in respect of which he might have been indicted upon the charge to which he is called upon to plead;

(c) that he has received the Royal pardon for the crime charged in the indictment, or for any other crime of which he might be convicted thereon;

(d) that he is not guilty;

(e) that the court has no jurisdiction to try him for such crime; or

(f) for defamation, that the defamatory matter published by him was true, and that it was for the public benefit that such matter should be published at the time when, and in the manner in which, it was published.

(2) An accused person may plead together any pleas under –

(a) paragraphs (a) and (c);

(b) paragraphs (b) and (c);

(c) paragraphs (b) and (e); or

(d) paragraphs (d), (e), and (f) –

of subsection (1).

(3) Where any plea or pleas under paragraphs (b), (c), or (e) of subsection (1) have been determined against an accused person, and he has not pleaded any other plea, he shall be called upon to plead afresh, and he may then plead under paragraph (d) of that subsection, with or without any other plea, not already pleaded, which may be joined therewith.

(4) Every plea, other than the pleas of guilty or not guilty, shall be in writing, and shall be filed with the clerk of the court at the time it is pleaded.

(5) Where 2 or more pleas may be pleaded together, the order in which they are pleaded shall be immaterial.

356. Withdrawal of pleas

An accused person may, by leave of the judge, at any time –

(a) before sentence, withdraw a plea of guilty and plead not guilty; or

(b) before verdict, withdraw any plea, and substitute a demurrer or some other plea.

357. Standing mute, &c.

(1) If an accused person, when called upon to plead to an indictment, stands mute or does not directly answer to the indictment and it appears to the judge that there is no reason to reserve the question of that person's fitness to stand trial for investigation under Part 2 of the Criminal Justice (Mental Impairment) Act 1999, the judge may order a plea of not guilty to be entered on that person's behalf.

(2) A plea endorsed under subsection (1) has the same effect as if it had been pleaded by the accused person.

358. Plea of autrefois acquit or autrefois convict

In a plea that the accused person has already been acquitted or convicted, it is sufficient to state that he has been lawfully acquitted or convicted, as the case may be, of the crime charged in the indictment, or of the other offence of which he alleges that he has been acquitted or convicted, and, in the latter case, to describe the offence by any term by which it is commonly known.

359. Joinder of issue not necessary

No joinder of issue upon any plea shall be necessary, but issue shall be deemed to have been joined at the time when such plea is pleaded, or, if there is a demurrer to such plea, when such demurrer is overruled.

360. Trial on plea to the jurisdiction

(1) Upon a plea to the jurisdiction of the court, the judge shall determine the question of jurisdiction in such manner and upon such evidence as he thinks fit, and may, in his discretion, order a jury to be impanelled and sworn to try any question of fact necessary to such determination.

(2) Any jury so impanelled may be resworn for the trial of the indictment if the judgment on such plea is against the accused person.

361. Trial by jury

If the accused person pleads any plea other than the plea of guilty or a plea to the jurisdiction of the court, he shall be deemed by such plea, and without any further form, to have demanded that the issues raised thereby shall be tried by a jury, and shall be entitled to have them tried accordingly, but if the plea is that the accused person has already been acquitted or convicted, or that he has received the Royal pardon, of the crime charged in the indictment the judge shall determine the plea in such manner and upon such evidence as he thinks fit, and may, in his discretion, order a jury to be empanelled and sworn to try any question of fact necessary for such determination.

361A. Argument before jury is sworn

(1) After an accused person has been called upon to plead as provided in section 351(1), all or any of the following may occur before a jury is sworn if the court thinks fit:

(a) the accused person may make admissions under section 184 of the Evidence Act 2001;

(b) the court may determine any question of law or procedure that has arisen or is expected to arise in the trial;

(c) the court may determine any question of fact that may lawfully be determined by a judge alone without a jury;

(d) the court may determine any other question that it considers necessary or convenient to determine in order to ensure that the trial will be conducted fairly and expeditiously;

(e) the court may give such directions as it thinks fit in order to resolve any issue or matter that it considers necessary or convenient to resolve before a jury is sworn.

(2) If –

(a) an admission, determination or direction is made or given under subsection (1); and

(b) a new trial of the indictment is had at the same or any future sittings of the court, whether before the same or a different judge – the admission, determination or direction has the same status for the purposes of the new trial as if it had been made or given, between the arraignment of the accused and the empanelment of the jury, during that new trial.

362. Effect of plea

When an accused person pleads any plea other than a plea of guilty, and succeeds on the issue so raised, the judgment shall be that he be discharged from the premises set forth in the count of the indictment to which such plea is pleaded; and he shall be discharged accordingly.

363. Separate trials

When 2 or more persons are charged in the same indictment, whether with the same crime or with different crimes, the judge may at any time during the trial, on the application of any of the accused persons, direct that the trial of any of them shall be had separately from the trial of the other or others of them, and for that purpose may, if a jury has been sworn, discharge such jury from giving a verdict as to any accused person in respect of whom such direction is made.

364.

365.

366.

367.

368. Defence

A person charged upon indictment shall be entitled to make his defence, and to examine or cross-examine witnesses, as the case may be, either personally or by his counsel.

368A. Notice of alibi

(1) On a trial on indictment the defendant shall not without the leave of the court adduce evidence in support of an alibi unless, before the end of the prescribed period, he gives notice of particulars of the alibi.

(2) Without prejudice to subsection (1) on a trial on indictment the defendant shall not without the leave of the court call any other person to give any such evidence as is referred to therein unless –

(a) the notice under that subsection includes the name and address of the witness or, if the name or address is not known to the defendant at the time he gives the notice, any information in his possession which might be of material assistance in finding the witness;

(b) if the name or the address is not included in that notice, the court is satisfied that the defendant, before giving the notice, took and thereafter continued to take all reasonable steps to secure that the name or address would be ascertained;

(c) if the name or the address is not included in that notice, but the defendant subsequently discovers the name or address or receives other information which might be of material assistance in finding the witness, he forthwith gives notice of the name, address or other information, as the case may be; and

(d) if the defendant is notified by or on behalf of the Director of Public Prosecutions that the witness has not been traced by the name or at the address given, he forthwith gives notice of any such information which is then in his possession or, on subsequently receiving any such information, forthwith gives notice of it.

(3) The court shall not refuse leave under this section if it appears to the court that the defendant was not informed, either in accordance with section 331B, or in writing by the Director of Public Prosecutions, of the requirements of this section.

(4) Any evidence tendered to disprove an alibi may, subject to any directions by the court as to the time it is to be given, be given before or after evidence is given in support of the alibi.

(5) Any notice purporting to be given under this section on behalf of the defendant by his Australian legal practitioner shall, unless the contrary is proved, be deemed to be given with the authority of the defendant.

(6) All notices under this section shall be given in writing to the Director of Public Prosecutions.

(7) A notice required by this section to be given to the Director of Public Prosecutions may be given by delivering it to him, or by leaving it at his office, or by sending it in a registered letter or by certified mail addressed to him at his office.

(8) In this section –

evidence in support of an alibi means evidence tending to show that by reason of the presence of the defendant at a particular place or in a particular area at a particular time he was not, or was unlikely to have been, at the place where the offence is alleged to have been committed at the time of its alleged commission;

the prescribed period means –

(a) in a case where the defendant has been informed in accordance with section 331B of the requirements of this section– the period of 7 days from the day on which the defendant was so informed of those requirements; or

(b) in a case where the defendant is being tried for an offence under section 125A(2) – the period commencing on the day on which the defendant was committed for trial and ending at the close of evidence for the prosecution; or

(c) in any other case – the period of 7 days from the day on which the defendant received notice in writing from the Director of Public Prosecutions of the requirements of this section.

(9) In computing a prescribed period for the purposes of this section any day that is an excluded day for the purposes of section 29 of the Acts Interpretation Act 1931 shall be disregarded.

369. Presence of accused

(1) The trial of an accused person shall take place in his presence, unless he so conducts himself as to render the continuance of the proceedings in his presence impracticable, in which case the judge may order him to be removed, and may direct the trial to proceed in his absence.

(2) The judge may, in any case, if he thinks fit, permit a person charged with a crime to be absent during the whole or any part of the trial on such conditions as the judge thinks fit, and may, if he thinks fit, grant him bail for that purpose.

370.

370A.

371. Speeches by counsel and summing up

The following rules shall apply to the proceedings upon the trial of an indictment:

(a) before any evidence is given the counsel for the Crown is entitled to address the jury for the purpose of opening the case for the prosecution;

(ab) immediately following an address by counsel for the Crown under paragraph (a) and before any evidence is given, the accused person or the counsel for the accused person, by way of reply, may address the jury for the purposes only of identifying –

(i) any matters of fact that are not in dispute or that the accused is prepared to admit; and

(ii) any issues that the accused contends are important to the defence case;

(b) at the close of the evidence for the prosecution an officer of the court shall ask the accused person whether he intends to adduce evidence in his defence;

(c) if the accused person has no witnesses to call he may himself give evidence on oath (but by so doing shall not be deemed to adduce evidence), and thereupon, or if he does not give evidence –

(i) if he has no counsel, he may address the jury in his own defence; or

(ii) if he has counsel, the counsel for the Crown may, if he thinks it a proper case in which so to do, make a second speech summing up the Crown's evidence, and commenting on the evidence of the accused, if any; and the counsel for the accused may then address the jury on his behalf;

(d) if the accused person adduces evidence –

(i) upon the close of the evidence for the Crown he or his counsel may address the jury for the purpose of opening the case for his defence, and call his evidence, giving his own evidence first if he desires to give evidence personally;

(ii) after the close of such evidence he, or his counsel, may address the jury, summing up his defence; and

(iii) counsel for the Crown may then reply;

(e) where there are more than one accused persons and any of them adduces evidence, counsel for the Crown shall have the right to reply as to the evidence adduced by him, but as to any of the accused persons who does not adduce evidence the provisions of paragraph (c) shall apply;

(f) . . . . .

(g) if the only evidence adduced by an accused person is as to character, counsel for the Crown is entitled to reply if in his opinion there are any special circumstances which render it necessary for him to do so;

(h) . . . . .

(i) evidence in rebuttal may be called by the Crown if the judge is of opinion that in the circumstances of the particular case it should be allowed;

(j) after all the evidence and all addresses to the jury have been concluded the judge shall instruct the jury as to the law applicable to the case, with such observations upon the evidence as the judge may think fit to make; and the jury may then, if they so desire, retire to some place set apart for that purpose, to consider their verdict.

371A. Recent complaint

Where, during the trial of a person accused of a crime under chapters XIV or XX, there is evidence which tends to suggest an absence of complaint by the person upon whom the crime is alleged to have been committed or which tends to suggest delay by that person in making a complaint, the judge shall –

(a) give a warning to the jury that absence of complaint or delay in complaining does not necessarily indicate that the allegation that the crime was committed is false; and

(b) inform the jury that there may be good reasons why such a person may hesitate in making, or may refrain from making, a complaint.

Chapter XLI - Verdict: Judgment

380.

381. Defence of insanity

(1) If upon the trial of an indictment it is given in evidence, or appears from the evidence, that the accused person was insane at the time the crime was alleged to have been committed by him, and such person is acquitted, the jury shall be required to find specially whether such person was acquitted by them on the ground of insanity.

(2) . . . . .

(3) The onus of proving the insanity of any such person shall be upon the defence, but the same may be established upon the evidence for the prosecution.

(4) If in any case it is shown that counsel for the accused person intends to allege that such person was so insane as aforesaid, and such counsel announces that he will not adduce evidence, the prosecutor may call evidence of sanity before closing the case for the prosecution; but in any other case such evidence may be called by him in rebuttal.

383. Verdict

(1) Upon the trial of an indictment the jury may in any case –

(a) subject to the provisions of subsection (1) of section 381, return a general verdict of "guilty", or "not guilty";

(b) find specially upon all the facts necessary to enable the judge to pass judgment; or

(c) if they return a general verdict, find specially upon any question submitted to them by the judge.

(2) If the jury acquit the accused person on the ground of insanity the verdict shall be that –

The accused committed the act [or made the omission] charged, but is not guilty, on the ground that he was insane at the time so as not to be responsible according to law.

(3) If in any case it appears to the judge that it is desirable that the jury should find specially upon all the facts necessary to enable him to give judgment, or upon any particular question, the judge may ask the jury to so find.

(4) In any such case the judge shall inform the jury that it is their right to find a special verdict or to return a general verdict; and that they are not obliged to find specially upon any question (except as hereinbefore provided in the case of a person acquitted on the ground of insanity).

(5) The jury may at any time before they leave the box correct any verdict which they have given, and may reconsider their verdict at the request of the court, but they are not bound to do so.

384. Acquittal

When a person has been acquitted of a crime charged in an indictment he is entitled to be forthwith discharged, so far as regards that crime.

385. Convicted person to be called on to show cause

(1) When a person is convicted of a crime, whether upon his plea of guilty or otherwise, he shall, before sentence is passed, be asked by an officer of the court whether he has anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him.

(2) Any such person as aforesaid may at any time before sentence move that judgment be arrested on the ground that the indictment does not disclose any crime, or that any other substantial defect appears upon the face of the record.

(3) Upon the hearing of the motion the judge may allow any amendment of the indictment which he might have allowed before verdict.

(4) The judge may either hear and determine the motion forthwith or may state a case for the consideration of the Court of Criminal Appeal as hereinafter provided.

(5) If judgment is arrested the accused person shall be acquitted, but may be again indicted upon the same charge.

385A. Hearing by judge of complaint of simple offence

(1) In this section, simple offence has the same meaning as in the Justices Act 1959.

(2) Where, in proceedings before a judge, a person is convicted or acquitted of a crime, the judge may, on the application of that person, hear and determine any complaint of a simple offence arising out of facts that are closely related to the facts alleged in the indictment or which are, or form part of, a series of offences of the same or a similar character to that of which the applicant has been convicted or acquitted, as the case may be.

(3) For the purpose of enabling a judge to deal with a matter under subsection (2), the Registrar may require a clerk of petty sessions to transmit to the Registrar any summons, warrant, complaint, or document of any sort, that is in the possession of that clerk and relates to that offence.

(4) Where, on an application under subsection (2), a judge decides to hear and determine any complaint of a simple offence, he may, after having heard and determined that complaint –

(a) acquit, convict and sentence, or otherwise deal with, the person who made the application, as if the offence were being dealt with in accordance with the Justices Act 1959; or

(b) make any order, or give any directions, that he considers appropriate in the circumstances, including remission of the matter to a court of petty sessions.

386A.

Chapter XLII - Crown Cases Reserved

387. Questions of law may be reserved

If on the trial of any person convicted of any crime any question of difficulty in point of law shall have arisen it shall be lawful for the judge, in his discretion, to reserve such question of law for the consideration and determination of the Court of Criminal Appeal, and in any such case to respite the execution of the judgment on such conviction, or postpone the judgment until such question of law shall have been considered and determined; and in either case the judge, in his discretion, shall commit the person convicted to gaol, or shall admit the convicted person to bail in order to secure that he shall appear at such time and place as the judge shall direct, and receive judgment, or render himself in execution, as the case may be.

388. Questions reserved to be stated in a case

(1) The judge by whom such question of law may have been so reserved shall thereupon state a case setting forth the question of law which shall have been so reserved, with the special circumstances upon which the same shall have arisen, and shall sign and transmit the same within a reasonable time to the Registrar of the Court of Criminal Appeal.

(2) Every question so reserved shall be dealt with in the same manner in every respect as is hereinafter provided with respect to appeals.

388AA. Power of Attorney-General to refer questions of law to Court of Criminal Appeal

(1) Subject to subsection (5), where a person has been acquitted after his trial on indictment, the Attorney-General may, within 28 days after the conclusion of the trial, refer any question of law that has arisen at the trial to the Court of Criminal Appeal for determination by that Court.

(2) The Attorney-General shall cause notice of a reference by him under subsection (1) to be given to the acquitted person to whom the reference relates.

(3) The reference of a question under this section or the determination by the Court of Criminal Appeal of a question referred to it under this section shall not in any way affect the trial at which the question arose or affect or invalidate any verdict or decision given at that trial.

(4) The procedure in relation to the determination of a question referred under this section to the Court of Criminal Appeal shall, subject to any rules made pursuant to section 12 of this Act, be as determined by the Court.

(5) The time within which a question may be referred under this section to the Court of Criminal Appeal may be extended at any time by the Court.

(6) Where a question is referred under this section to the Court of Criminal Appeal –

(a) a person charged at the trial at which the question arose or affected by the verdict or the decision given at that trial is entitled to be heard before the Court of Criminal Appeal on the determination of that question;

(b) if it appears that that person does not intend to appear on his own behalf, and does not propose to be represented on the determination of that question, the Attorney-General may arrange for an Australian legal practitioner to argue that question before the Court of Criminal Appeal on behalf of that person; and

(c) there shall be paid by the Crown the costs of the legal representation of any person heard before the Court of Criminal Appeal as provided in this subsection, being such costs as that Court, subject to subsection (7), considers to be reasonable.

(7) For the purposes of determining the amount of any costs of any legal representation that it should order to be paid pursuant to subsection (6)(c), the Court of Criminal Appeal may obtain the assistance of the Registrar of that Court who may require the person providing the legal representation to lodge a bill of costs for the consideration of the Court.

(8) Where the Court of Criminal Appeal makes an order with respect to the payment of any costs referred to in subsection (6)(c), that Court shall deliver or cause to be delivered a copy of the order to the Secretary of the Law Department and thereupon the amount in respect of which the order is made may be recovered as a debt due by the Crown.

Chapter XLIIA - Procedure on Continuing Nuisances

388A. Abatement or removal of nuisance

(1) Upon a conviction of creating and continuing a nuisance or of continuing a nuisance the court may –

(a) adjourn the cause for a specified period to give the person convicted an opportunity to abate or remove the nuisance; or

(b) refer to the Associate Judge the questions of how and at what cost the nuisance may best be abated or removed, and otherwise adjourn the cause until the Associate Judge's report is available.

(2) On a reference under this section, the Associate Judge–

(a) shall make such an inquiry as he thinks proper;

(b) may obtain the opinion of engineers and other persons with scientific or technical knowledge; and

(c) shall hear, if they so desire, the prosecutor and the defendant– and report in writing to the court accordingly.

(3) On receiving the Associate Judge's report the court shall cause the parties to be given copies of the report and to be summoned to appear before it.

(4) The cause being again before the court, either party may move that the report be rejected and a further and better report ordered, which the court may do with all necessary consequences.

(5) If after an adjournment under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) it appears to the court that the nuisance has not been abated or removed, the court may proceed under paragraph (b) of that subsection.

(6) On accepting a report of the Associate Judge, the court may sentence the defendant to pay a fine equal to the amount that he has reported that the abatement or removal of the nuisance will cost, and order that the fine be paid over to the Treasurer of the State, the treasurer of a municipality, or to some other authority as payment for abating or removing the nuisance according to such arrangement or contract therefor as the court approves.

(7) Money received by the Treasurer under subsection (6) shall be paid into a trust account established under section 13(2) of the Public Account Act 1986 and not applied otherwise than for the abatement or removal of nuisances.

(8) If it is not convenient that the Associate Judge should act under this section the court may appoint any Australian legal practitioner to perform the same duties.

388B. Punishment for creating nuisance

(1) When a person is convicted of creating and continuing a nuisance, the court may, in addition to any fine imposed under section 388A, impose a sentence in respect of the creating of the nuisance.

(2) Where under subsection (1) the judge of the court of trial is of opinion that both imprisonment and a fine should be imposed, he may sentence the person convicted at any time after the verdict and while the procedure of section 388A is going on and as part of the same sentence add the fine when it is clear what fine, if any, should be imposed under subsection (6) of that section.

Chapter XLIV - Exceptions to Double Jeopardy Rules

390. Definitions

(1) In this Chapter –

acquittal –

(a) includes –

(i) an acquittal in appeal proceedings in relation to a crime; and

(ii) an acquittal at the direction of a court; but

(b) does not include a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity;

administration of justice crime means a crime under Chapter X;

Court means the Court of Criminal Appeal;

fresh and compelling evidence – see section 395;

interests of justice – see section 397;

serious crime means a crime punishable upon indictment listed in Appendix D;

tainted acquittal – see section 396;

very serious crime means a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, under section 158, a crime under section 159, 185 or 240(4) or a crime under Part 2 of the Misuse of Drugs Act 2001 being a crime that relates to a trafficable quantity of a controlled substance.

(2) For the purposes of this Chapter, the retrial of an acquitted person for a crime includes a trial if the crime is not the same as the crime of which the person was acquitted.

(3) In this Chapter, a reference to the proceedings in which a person was acquitted includes, if they were appeal proceedings, a reference to the earlier proceedings to which the appeal related.

391. Application of Chapter XLIV

(1) This Chapter applies if, before or after the commencement of this Chapter, a person is acquitted of a crime, whether the crime is committed before or after the commencement of this Chapter.

(2) This section extends to a person acquitted in proceedings outside this State of a crime under the law of the place where the proceedings were held.

(3) However, this section does not extend as mentioned in subsection (2) if the law of the place where the proceedings were held does not permit the person to be retried and the application of this Chapter to the retrial is inconsistent with the Constitution of the Commonwealth or a law of the Commonwealth.

392. Circumstances in which person may be charged with administration of justice crime relating to previous acquittal

(1) The Court may, on application by the Director of Public Prosecutions, order a person who has been acquitted of a crime to be tried for an administration of justice crime that is related to the crime of which the person has been acquitted if the Court is satisfied that –

(a) there appears to be fresh evidence against the acquitted person in relation to the administration of justice crime; and

(b) in all the circumstances it is in the interests of justice for the order to be made.

(2) If the Court orders a person to be tried for an administration of justice crime that is related to a crime of which the person has been acquitted, the Court must quash the person's acquittal or remove the acquittal as a bar to the person being tried.

(3) On the trial of a person for an administration of justice crime, section 355(1)(b) does not apply in relation to the charge of the administration of justice crime.

(4) For the purposes of this section, evidence is "fresh" if –

(a) it was not adduced in the proceedings in which the person was acquitted; and

393. Court may order retrial for a very serious crime – fresh and compelling evidence

(1) The Court may, on the application of the Director of Public Prosecutions, order an acquitted person to be retried for a very serious crime if satisfied that –

(a) there appears to be fresh and compelling evidence against the acquitted person in relation to the crime; and

(b) in all the circumstances it is in the interests of justice for the order to be made.

(2) The Court may order a person to be retried for a very serious crime under this section even if the person had been charged with and acquitted of a lesser crime.

(3) If the Court orders an acquitted person to be retried for a very serious crime, the Court must quash the person's acquittal or remove the acquittal as a bar to the person being retried.

(4) On the retrial, section 355(1)(b) does not apply in relation to the charge of the very serious crime.

394. Court may order retrial for a serious crime – tainted acquittal

(1) The Court may, on the application of the Director of Public Prosecutions, order an acquitted person to be retried for a serious crime if satisfied that –

(a) the acquittal is a tainted acquittal; and

(b) in all the circumstances it is in the interests of justice for the order to be made.

(2) The Court may order a person to be retried for a serious crime under this section even if the person had been charged with and acquitted of a lesser crime.

(3) If the Court orders an acquitted person to be retried for a serious crime, the Court must quash the person's acquittal or remove the acquittal as a bar to the person being retried.

(4) On the retrial, section 355(1)(b) does not apply in relation to the charge of the serious crime.

395. Fresh and compelling evidence – meaning

(1) This section applies for the purpose of deciding under this Chapter whether there is fresh and compelling evidence against an acquitted person in relation to a very serious crime.

(2) Evidence is "fresh" if –

(a) it was not adduced in the proceedings in which the person was acquitted; and

(b) it could not have been adduced in those proceedings with the exercise of reasonable diligence.

(3) Evidence is "compelling" if –

(a) it is reliable; and

(b) it is substantial; and

(c) in the context of the issues in dispute in the proceedings in which the person was acquitted, it is highly probative of the case against the acquitted person.

(4) Evidence that would be admissible on a retrial under this Chapter is not precluded from being fresh and compelling evidence merely because it would have been inadmissible in the earlier proceedings against the acquitted person.

396. Tainted acquittal – meaning

(1) This section applies for the purpose of deciding under this Chapter whether the acquittal of an accused person is a tainted acquittal.

(2) An acquittal is "tainted" if –

(a) the accused person or another person has been convicted in this State or elsewhere of an administration of justice crime in relation to the proceedings in which the accused person was acquitted; and

(b) it is more likely than not that, but for the commission of the administration of justice crime, the accused person would have been convicted.

(3) An acquittal is not a tainted acquittal during any of the following periods:

(a) the period provided under section 407 for the person convicted of the administration of justice crime (the "convicted person") to appeal, or obtain leave to appeal, from the conviction;

(b) if, within the period mentioned in paragraph (a), the convicted person gives notice of appeal, the period ending when the appeal is decided;

(c) if, within the period mentioned in paragraph (a), the convicted person gives notice of an application for leave to appeal, the period ending –

(i) if the application is refused, when the decision refusing the application is made; or

(ii) if the application is granted, when the appeal is decided.

(4) If the conviction for the administration of justice crime is, on appeal, quashed after the Court has ordered the acquitted person to be retried under this Chapter because of the conviction, the person may apply to the Court to set aside the order and –

(a) restore the acquittal that was quashed; or

(b) restore the acquittal as a bar to the person being retried for the crime.

397. Interests of justice – matters for consideration

(1) This section applies for the purpose of deciding under this Chapter whether it is in the interests of justice for an order to be made for the retrial of, or prosecution of an administration of justice crime against, an acquitted person.

(2) It is not in the interests of justice to make an order for the retrial of, or prosecution of an administration of justice crime against, an acquitted person unless the Court is satisfied that a fair retrial or trial is likely in the circumstances.

(3) The Court must have regard in particular to –

- (a) the length of time since the acquitted person allegedly committed the crime; and
- (b) whether any police officer or prosecutor has failed to act with reasonable diligence or expedition in relation to –
  - (i) the investigation of the commission of the crime of which the person was acquitted and the prosecution of the proceedings in which the person was acquitted; and
  - (ii) the application for the retrial of, or prosecution of an administration of justice crime against, the acquitted person.

397A. Application for prosecution for administration of justice crime – procedure

- (1) An application under section 392 may not be made unless –
  - (a) the person has been charged with the administration of justice crime; or
  - (b) a warrant has been issued for the person's arrest for the administration of justice crime.
- (2) The application must be made not later than 28 days after the person is charged with the relevant crime or the warrant is issued for the person's arrest in relation to the relevant crime.
- (3) The Court may extend the period mentioned in subsection (2) for good cause.
- (4) The Court must consider the application at a hearing.
- (5) The person to whom the application relates is entitled to be present and heard at the hearing, whether or not the person is in custody.
- (6) However, if the person has been given a reasonable opportunity to be present, the application may be decided even if the person is not present.
- (7) The powers of the Court mentioned in section 409(1) may be exercised in relation to the hearing of the application.
- (8) The Court may at one hearing consider more than one application under section 392, but only if the administration of justice crimes concerned may be tried on the same indictment.
- (9) If the Court decides in proceedings on an application under section 392 that the acquittal is not a bar to the person being tried for an administration of justice crime that is related to the crime of which the person has been acquitted, it must make a declaration to that effect.

397AB. Prosecution for administration of justice crime

(1) An indictment for the trial of a person in respect of whom the Court has made an order under section 392 may not, without leave of the Court, be presented after the end of the period of 2 months after the order was made.

(2) The Court may give leave only if satisfied that –

(a) the prosecutor has acted with reasonable expedition; and

(b) there is good and sufficient reason why the late presentation of the indictment should be allowed.

(3) If, after the end of the period of 2 months after an order for the trial of an accused person was made under section 392, an indictment for the trial of the person has not been presented or has been withdrawn or quashed, the person may apply to the Court to set aside the order for the trial and –

(a) restore the acquittal that was quashed; or

(b) restore the acquittal as a bar to the person being tried for the crime.

(4) If the order is set aside, a further application may not be made under section 392 for the trial of the accused person in relation to the administration of justice crime.

(5) At the trial of a person for an administration of justice crime, the prosecution is not entitled to refer to the fact that the Court has found that there appears to be fresh evidence against that person.

397AC. Application for retrial – procedure

(1) If a person has been acquitted, not more than one application for the retrial of the person may be made under this Chapter in relation to the acquittal.

(2) If the acquittal results from a retrial under section 393 or 394 –

(a) an application may not be made for an order under section 393 in relation to the acquittal; but

(b) an application may be made for an order under section 394 in relation to the acquittal.

(3) An application for the retrial of an acquitted person may not be made under this Chapter unless –

(a) the person has been charged with the crime for which the retrial is sought (the "relevant crime"); or

(b) a warrant has been issued for the person's arrest in relation to the relevant crime.

(4) The application must be made not later than 28 days after the person is charged with the relevant crime or the warrant is issued for the person's arrest in relation to the relevant crime.

(5) The Court may extend the period mentioned in subsection (4) for good cause.

(6) The Court must consider the application at a hearing.

(7) The person to whom the application relates is entitled to be present and heard at the hearing, whether or not the person is in custody.

(8) However, if the person has been given a reasonable opportunity to be present, the application may be decided even if the person is not present.

(9) The powers of the Court mentioned in section 409(1) may be exercised in relation to the hearing of the application.

(10) The Court may at one hearing consider more than one application under this Chapter for a retrial (whether or not relating to the same person), but only if the crimes concerned may be tried on the same indictment.

(11) If the Court decides in proceedings on an application under this Chapter that the acquittal is not a bar to the person being retried for the crime concerned, it must make a declaration to that effect.

397AD. Retrial

(1) An indictment for the retrial of a person that has been ordered under this Chapter may not, without the leave of the Court, be presented after the end of the period of 2 months after the order was made.

(2) The Court may give leave only if it is satisfied that –

(a) the prosecutor has acted with reasonable expedition; and

(b) there is good and sufficient reason for the retrial despite the lapse of time since the order was made.

(3) If, after the end of the period of 2 months after an order for the retrial of an accused person was made under this Chapter, an indictment for the retrial of the person has not been presented or has been withdrawn or quashed, the person may apply to the Court to set aside the order for the retrial and –

(a) restore the acquittal that was quashed; or

(b) restore the acquittal as a bar to the person being tried for the crime.

(4) If the order is set aside, a further application may not be made under this Chapter for the retrial of the accused person in relation to the crime concerned.

(5) At the retrial of an accused person, the prosecution is not entitled to refer to the fact that the Court has found that it appears that –

(a) there appears to be fresh and compelling evidence against the acquitted person; or

(b) more likely than not, but for the commission of the administration of justice crime, the accused person would have been convicted.

397AE. Authorisation of police investigations

(1) This section applies to any police investigation of the commission of a crime by an acquitted person in relation to the possible retrial of the person for the crime or prosecution of the person for an administration of justice crime under this Chapter.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a police investigation is an investigation that involves, whether with or without the consent of the acquitted person –

(a) any arrest, questioning or search of the acquitted person, or the issue of a warrant for the arrest of the person; or

(b) any forensic procedure carried out on the person or any search or seizure of premises or property of or occupied by the person.

(3) A police officer may not carry out or authorise a police investigation to which this section applies unless the Director of Public Prosecutions –

(a) has advised that, in the opinion of the Director of Public Prosecutions, the acquittal would not be a bar to the retrial of the acquitted person in this State for the crime or the trial of an acquitted person for an administration of justice crime; and

(b) has given written consent to the police investigation on the application in writing of the Commissioner of Police.

(4) However, a commissioned police officer may authorise the carrying out of a police investigation to which this section applies, without the advice and written consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions under subsection (3)(a) or (b), if the commissioned police officer reasonably believes that –

(a) urgent action is required in order to prevent the investigation being substantially and irrevocably prejudiced; and

(b) it is not reasonably practicable in the circumstances to obtain the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions before taking the action.

(5) The Director of Public Prosecutions must be informed, as soon as practicable, of any action taken under subsection (4) and the investigation must not proceed further without the advice and written consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions under subsection (3)(a) or (b).

(6) The Commissioner of Police may make an application for the police investigation only if satisfied that relevant evidence for the purposes of an application for a retrial under this Chapter –

(a) has been obtained; or

(b) is likely to be obtained as a result of the investigation.

(7) The Director of Public Prosecutions may give consent to the police investigation only if satisfied that –

(a) there is, or there is likely as a result of the investigation to be, sufficient new evidence to warrant the conduct of the investigation; and

(b) it is in the public interest for the investigation to proceed.

(8) Despite section 8 of the Police Service Act 2003, the Commissioner of Police may not delegate powers of the Commissioner under this section to a police officer or an employee or officer, within the meaning of the State Service Act 2000.

397AF. Restrictions on publication

(1) A person must not publish any matter for the purpose of identifying or having the effect of identifying an acquitted person who is being retried or tried for an administration of justice crime under this Chapter or who is the subject of –

(a) a police investigation, or an application for a police investigation, mentioned in section 397AE; or

(b) an application for a retrial or trial for an administration of justice crime, or an order for retrial or trial for an administration of justice crime, under this chapter.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply if the publication is authorised by order of the Court or of the court before which the acquitted person is being retried or tried for the administration of justice crime.

(3) The relevant court may make an order authorising publication only if the court is satisfied that it is in the interests of justice to make the order.

(4) Before making an order under this section, the relevant court must give the acquitted person a reasonable opportunity to be heard on the application for the order.

(5) The relevant court may at any time vary or revoke an order under this section.

(6) The prohibition on publication under this section ceases to have effect, subject to any order under this section, when whichever of the following situations occurs first:

(a) there is no longer any step that could be taken which would lead to the acquitted person being retried or tried for the administration of justice crime under this Chapter;

(b) if the acquitted person is retried or tried for the administration of justice crime under this Chapter, the trial ends.

(7) Nothing in this section affects any prohibition of the publication of any matter under any other Act or law.

(8) A contravention of a prohibition on publication under this section is punishable as contempt of the Supreme Court.

391A.

Chapter XLV - Execution of Sentence: Pardons

397B. Civil execution

Where by any judgment or order of the Supreme Court or a judge made under the Code a sum of money is payable to the Crown or any other person by way of forfeiture, damages, costs, or otherwise a memorandum in a summary form of so much of the plea as is necessary for the purposes of this section may be made on paper, sealed with the seal of the Supreme Court, and at the instance of the party entitled to the payment may be entered in the same manner as a judgment subject to the Supreme Court Civil Procedure Act 1932 and enforced under that Act.

398. Pardons

(1) A free pardon extended by or on behalf of His Majesty shall have the effect of discharging the offender from all legal consequences of the offence for which such pardon is granted.

(2) In any case in which a pardon imposes any conditions upon the person to whom it is granted, all courts of justice and officers shall give effect thereto in the same manner as they would be bound to give effect to the lawful sentence of a court imposing like conditions.

Chapter XLVI - Appeals

399. Interpretation

In this chapter, unless the contrary intention appears –

appellant means any person convicted, or any prosecutor, who wishes to appeal under this chapter;

Attorney-General includes an officer appointed to prosecute in any criminal proceeding;

Court means the Court of Criminal Appeal;

court of trial means the court before which an accused person has been tried upon an indictment, or the court which has passed sentence upon a plea of guilty; person convicted includes an accused person who, not having set up insanity as a defence, has been acquitted on the ground of insanity;

Registrar means the Registrar of the Court appointed by this chapter;

sentence includes any order made by the court of trial –

- (a) for the keeping in custody of any person convicted;
- (b) with reference to any property; or
- (c) with reference to any moneys to be paid by a person convicted.

400. Court of Criminal Appeal

(1) The Court of Criminal Appeal is duly constituted for the purpose of exercising any of its jurisdiction if it consists of 3 or more judges of the Supreme Court, but, in relation to any particular appeal, may be duly constituted by only 2 such judges if none of the parties to the appeal objects to the Court being so constituted for the purpose of hearing the appeal.

(2) The determination of any question before the Court shall be according to the opinion of the majority of the judges, or in case the judges are equally divided, according to the opinion of the Chief Justice, or in his absence, of the Senior Judge.

(3) The Court shall be a superior court of record, and shall, for the purposes of, and subject to the provisions of, this chapter, have full power to determine in accordance with this chapter any question necessary to be determined for the purpose of doing justice in any case before the Court.

(4) The Associate Judge of the Supreme Court is to be an Associate Judge of the Court.

(5) The Registrar, the Deputy Registrar, and the Assistant Deputy Registrar of the Supreme Court shall, respectively, be the Registrar, the Deputy Registrar, and the Assistant Deputy Registrar of the Court.

(6) Subject to the Rules of Court, the Deputy Registrar or the Assistant Deputy Registrar of the Court may exercise any of the functions conferred by this Act or otherwise on the Registrar, and any act or thing done by or before the Deputy Registrar or the Assistant Deputy Registrar of the Court has the same force and effect as if it were done by or before the Registrar.

401. Right of appeal

- (1) A person convicted before a court of trial may appeal to the Court –
- (a) against his conviction on any ground which involves a question of law;
  - (b) with the leave of the Court, or upon the certificate of the judge of the court of trial that it is a fit case for appeal, against his conviction upon a ground of appeal –
    - (i) which involves a question of fact alone;
    - (ii) which involves a mixed question of fact and law;
    - (iii) which appears to the Court to be a sufficient ground of appeal; and
  - (c) against the sentence passed on his conviction, unless the sentence is one fixed by law.
- (2) The Attorney-General may appeal to the Court –
- (a) against an order arresting judgment;
  - (b) by leave of the Court or upon the certificate of the judge of the court of trial that it is a fit case for appeal, against an acquittal on a question of law;
  - (ba) by leave of the Court, against a stay of proceedings; or
  - (c) against the sentence;
  - (d) by leave of the Court or the trial judge, against an order quashing an indictment; or
  - (e) by leave of the Court or the trial judge, against an order upholding a demurrer.
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(c), sentence, in relation to –
- (a) a person convicted on indictment, includes –
    - (i) . . . . .
    - (ii) a probation order under the Sentencing Act 1997; or
  - (b) a person convicted under the provisions of section 331C includes a probation order under the Sentencing Act 1997.

402. Determination of appeals

(1) On an appeal the Court shall allow the appeal if it is of opinion that the verdict of the jury should be set aside on the ground that it is unreasonable, or cannot be supported having regard to the evidence, or that the judgment or order of the court of trial should be set aside on the ground of the wrong decision of any question of law, or that on any ground whatsoever there was a miscarriage of justice, and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.

(2) The Court may, notwithstanding that it is of the opinion that the point raised by the appeal might be decided in favour of the appellant, dismiss the appeal if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

(3) Subject to the special provisions of this chapter, the Court shall, if it allows an appeal against conviction, quash the conviction and direct a judgment and verdict of acquittal to be entered.

(4) On an appeal against a sentence, the Court, if it is of opinion that some other sentence, whether more or less severe, is warranted in law and should have been passed, shall quash the sentence and pass such other sentence in substitution therefor, and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.

(4A) The Court, on hearing an appeal that does or may require it to impose a sentence, or to vary a sentence imposed, on a person for an offence (whether the appeal was brought, made or lodged by the person or by the prosecutor) –

(a) may take into account any matter relevant to the sentence that has occurred between when the court of trial dealt with the person and when the appeal is heard; but

(b) despite paragraph (a), must not take into account the fact that the Court's decision may mean that the person is again sentenced for the crime.

(5) If the Court allows an appeal against an order arresting judgment or against an acquittal, it may make any of the following orders which may be applicable:

(a) that judgment be pronounced upon the offender;

(b) that a conviction be entered against the offender;

(c) that a venire de novo or new trial shall be had in such manner as the Court may direct;

(d) that the offender shall appear at such time and place as the Court may direct to receive judgment – and any justice may thereupon issue his warrant for the arrest of the offender.

(6) Any offender so arrested may be admitted to bail by order of the Court or a judge.

(7) The Court may dismiss an appeal at any time, either on its own motion or on the application of either party to the appeal, if it is satisfied that –

(a) the appellant has failed to take all reasonable steps to prosecute the appeal; and

(b) it is necessary or expedient in the interests of justice to do so.

403. Powers of Court in special cases

(1) If it appears to the Court that an appellant, though not properly convicted on some count or part of the indictment has been properly convicted on some other count or part of the indictment, the Court may either affirm the sentence passed at the trial or pass such sentence, whether more or less severe, in substitution therefor, as it thinks proper, and as may be warranted in law by the conviction on the indictment or part thereof on which it considers the appellant has been properly convicted.

(2) Where an appellant has been convicted of a crime, and the jury could on the indictment have found him guilty of some other crime, and on the finding of the jury it appears to the Court that the jury must have been satisfied of facts which proved him guilty of that other crime, the Court may, instead of allowing or dismissing the appeal, substitute for the verdict found by the jury a verdict of guilty of that other crime, and pass such sentence, not being a sentence of greater severity, in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial, as may be warranted in law for that other crime.

(3) Where, on the conviction of the appellant, the jury have found a special verdict, and the Court considers that a wrong conclusion has been arrived at by the court of trial on the effect of that verdict, the Court may, instead of allowing the appeal, order such conclusion to be recorded as appears to the Court to be in law required by the verdict, and pass such sentence, whether more or less severe, in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial, as may be warranted in law.

(3A) Where under the foregoing provisions of this section the Court has power to affirm, or to pass a sentence in substitution for, a sentence passed on a person at his trial it may, instead of exercising that power, refer the case to the trial judge, and, on the case being so referred to him, that judge may himself exercise that power as if he were the Court; and any power exercised by a judge under this section has the like effect as if it were exercised by the Court.

(4) If on any appeal it appears to the Court that, although the appellant committed the act or made the omission charged against him, he was not of sound mind at the time when the act or omission alleged to constitute the crime occurred, so as not to be responsible therefor according to law, the Court may quash the sentence passed at the trial and exercise the like powers as could have been exercised if the appellant had been acquitted on the ground of insanity.

404. Power to order new trial

(1) On any appeal the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of the appellant, order a venire de novo or new trial at such time and place as it thinks fit, if the Court considers that a miscarriage of justice has occurred, and that, having regard to all the circumstances, such miscarriage of justice can be more adequately remedied by an order for a venire de novo or new trial than by any other order which the Court is empowered to make.

(2) Where a venire de novo or new trial is directed, the Court may make such order as to it seems fit for the safe custody of the appellant or for admitting him to bail.

405. Suspension of order, &c.: Revesting property on conviction

(1) The operation of any order for the restitution of any property, or for the payment of compensation to an aggrieved person, made by the court of trial, and the operation of the provisions of section 29 (1) of the Sale of Goods Act 1896, as to the revesting of the property in stolen goods on conviction, shall (unless the court of trial directs to the contrary in any case in which in its opinion the title to the property is not in dispute) be suspended –

(a) until the expiration of the time provided for appealing to the Court; and

(b) where notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal is given within the time provided, until the determination of the appeal or refusal of the application – and in cases where the operation of any such order or the operation of the said provisions is suspended until the determination of the appeal, the order or provisions, as the case may be, shall not take effect as to the property in question if the conviction is quashed on appeal, except by the special order of the Court.

(2) The Court may, by order, annul or vary any order made on a trial for the restitution of any property to any person, although the conviction is not quashed; and such order, if annulled, shall not take effect, and, if varied, shall take effect as so varied.

(3) The judge of the court of trial may give directions for the safe custody of any such property pending the suspension of any such order or of such provisions.

406. Jurisdiction in cases reserved

All questions reserved under section 387 shall be determined by the Court under the provisions of this chapter, and in any case in which an appellant appeals on any ground involving a question of law alone, the Court may direct that a case shall be stated and the appeal determined in the same manner as if a question of law had been reserved under the provisions of that section.

407. Time for appealing

(1) Any person convicted desiring to appeal to the Court, or to obtain leave to appeal, against any conviction or sentence, shall give notice of appeal or notice of application for leave to appeal, within 14 days of the date of such conviction or sentence.

(1A) A notice under subsection (1) shall be signed by the person giving it or his attorney.

(2) . . . . .

(3) An appeal by the Attorney-General under section 401(2)(a), (b), (d) and (e) is to be brought by the Attorney-General –

(a) notifying his or her intention to appeal at any time during the trial or immediately after the verdict in the presence of the accused or his or her counsel and, within 7 days after the conclusion of the trial, giving notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal in the manner prescribed; or

(b) giving notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal in the manner prescribed within 7 days after the conclusion of the trial.

(3A) An appeal by the Attorney-General under section 401(2)(c) is to be brought by the Attorney-General giving notice of appeal in the manner prescribed at any time within 14 days after sentence.

(4) Upon any such notification or notice as mentioned in subsection (3) or (3A) hereof, the judge of the court of trial may require the accused to enter into a recognizance, with or without sureties, to appear at such time and place as the judge may direct, or when called upon, to abide the determination of the appeal.

(4A) If the Attorney-General has not notified his or her intention to appeal or given a notice of appeal or a notice of application for leave to appeal under subsection (3), then, if the relevant time has not expired, the Attorney-General may apply to the Court for an order requiring the accused to enter into a recognizance, with or without sureties, to appear before the Court at a specified time and place.

(4B) The Court must not make an order under subsection (4A) unless the Attorney-General gives an undertaking to give a notice of appeal or a notice of application for leave to appeal within the time specified in subsection (3).

(4C) An order under subsection (4A) is to lapse and the accused is to be discharged from the recognizance if the Attorney-General has not given the relevant notice under subsection (3) within the time specified in that subsection.

(5) The time within which notice of appeal, or notice of an application for leave to appeal, may be given, may be extended at any time by the Court.

407A. Withdrawal of appeals

An appeal or an application for leave to appeal may be withdrawn and discontinued by leave of the Court.

408. Appeal book

(1) On receiving a notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal, the Registrar may cause an appeal book to be prepared for the use of the Court.

(2) For the purpose of causing an appeal book to be prepared, the Registrar –

(a) may require –

(i) the parties to the appeal or their representatives to submit to the Registrar a memorandum setting out the proposed contents of the appeal book as agreed by them; or

(ii) each party to the appeal or the representative of each party to submit to the Registrar a memorandum setting out the proposed contents of the appeal book; and

(b) may consult the parties or their representatives by telephone, or in writing or by requiring the personal attendance of the parties or their representatives.

(2A) The Registrar shall settle the appeal book when satisfied that the parties or their representatives have been given a sufficient opportunity to be heard.

(3) For the purposes of this section the judge of the court of trial shall, if so requested by the Registrar, furnish him with his notes of the trial and also a report giving his opinion on the case or upon any point arising in the case.

409. Supplemental powers

(1) For the purposes of this chapter the Court may, if it thinks it necessary or expedient in the interests of justice –

(a) order the production of any document, exhibit, or other thing connected with the proceedings;

(b) order any persons who would have been compellable witnesses at the trial to attend and be examined before the Court, whether they were or were not called at the trial, or order any such persons to be examined before any judge of the Court, or before any officer of the Court, or justice, or other person appointed by the Court for the purpose, and admit any depositions so taken as evidence;

(c) receive the evidence, if tendered, of any witness (including the appellant) who is a competent, but not compellable, witness; and if the appellant makes application for the purpose, of the husband or wife of the appellant, in cases where the evidence of the husband or wife could not have been given at the trial except on such application.

(d) where any question arising on the appeal involves prolonged examination of documents or accounts, or any scientific or local investigation, which cannot, in the opinion of the Court, be conveniently conducted before the Court, refer the question for inquiry and report to a commissioner appointed by the Court, and act upon the report of such commissioner so far as the Court thinks fit; and

(e) appoint any person with special expert knowledge to act as assessor to the Court in any case in which it appears to the Court that such special knowledge is required for the determination of the case – and exercise in relation to the proceedings of the Court any other powers which may be exercised by the Supreme Court on appeals or applications in civil matters, and issue any warrant or other process necessary for enforcing the orders or sentences of the Court.

(2) In no case shall any sentence be increased by reason of or in consideration of any evidence that was not given at the trial.

410. Legal assistance to appellant, &c.

If it appears to be in the interests of justice that a person should have legal aid in connection with any proceedings under Chapter XLII or this Chapter and that he has not sufficient means to enable him to obtain that aid, the Court or a judge or Associate Judge may make an order directing that he be given assistance under the approved scheme for the time being in force under the Legal Aid Commission Act 1990.

411. Right of appellant to be present

(1) An appellant, notwithstanding that he is in custody, shall be entitled to be present if he so desires, on the hearing of his appeal, except where the appeal is on some ground involving a question of law alone.

(2) On an appeal on such ground, and on an application for leave to appeal, and on any proceedings preliminary or incidental to an appeal, the appellant shall not be entitled to be present, except by leave of the Court.

(3) The power of the Court to pass any sentence may be exercised notwithstanding that the appellant is not present.

412. Case and argument in writing

An appellant shall be entitled to present his case and his argument to the Court in writing if he so desires, and any case or argument so presented shall be considered by the Court.

413. Duty of Attorney-General

(1) The Attorney-General, or counsel on his behalf, shall appear for the Crown on every appeal to the Court under this chapter.

(2) Provision shall be made by the rules under the Code for the transmission to the Attorney-General of all such documents, exhibits, and other things connected with the proceedings as he may require for the purpose of his duties under this section.

413A. Reserved judgments

(1) When any cause or matter, after being fully heard before the Court, is ordered to stand for judgment, it is not necessary that both or all judges before whom it was heard be present together in court to declare their opinions thereon, but the opinion of any of them may be reduced to writing and may be read by any other judge at any subsequent sitting of the Court at which judgment in the cause or matter is appointed to be delivered.

(2) In any such case the question shall be decided in the same manner, and the judgment of the Court shall have the same force and effect as if the judge whose opinion is so read had been present in court and had declared his opinion in person.

(3) Nothing in this section affects the practice of publishing in writing a judge's reasons for his opinion.

414. Costs of appeal, &c.

(1) In any proceedings under Chapter XLII or this Chapter the Court may make such order as to costs as it thinks fit.

(2) No order shall be made under this section in respect of any proceedings in favour of a person who has received assistance under the Legal Aid Commission Act 1990 in those proceedings.

(3) Where the Crown is ordered under this section to pay costs, those costs shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament for the purpose.

415. Admission of appellant to bail and custody when attending court

(1) . . . . .

(1A) . . . . .

(1B) . . . . .

(2) The Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of an appellant who has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment by the court of trial, admit him to bail pending the determination of the appeal.

(3) . . . . .

(4) . . . . .

(5) The Sheriff shall, subject to the rules to be made hereunder, give all necessary directions for bringing an appellant who is in custody to any place where he is entitled to be present or ordered to be taken for the purposes of this chapter, and for the manner in which he is to be kept in custody whilst absent from prison for the purpose, and an appellant whilst in custody in accordance with such directions shall be deemed to be in legal custody.

(6) This section shall apply to a person in respect of whose conviction a case has been stated under the provisions of section 387.

416. Duties of Registrar

(1) The Registrar shall take all necessary steps for obtaining a hearing of every appeal or application, notice of which is given to him, and shall obtain and lay before the Court in proper form all documents, exhibits, and other things relating to the proceedings in the court of trial which appear necessary for the proper determination of the appeal or application.

(2) If it appears to the Registrar that any notice of appeal against a conviction does not show any substantial ground of appeal, he may refer the appeal to the Court for summary determination; and the Court may thereupon, if it considers that the appeal is frivolous or vexatious, dismiss the appeal summarily without calling upon any person to attend the hearing.

(3) The Registrar shall furnish the necessary forms and instructions in relation to notices of appeal or notices of application to any person who demands the same, and to officers of courts, governors of gaols, and to such other officers or persons as he thinks fit, and the governor of every gaol shall cause such forms and instructions to be placed at the disposal of prisoners desiring to appeal or to make any application, and shall cause any such notice given by a prisoner in his custody to be forwarded on behalf of the prisoner to the Registrar.

417. Documents, exhibits, &c.

Any documents, exhibits, or other things connected with any proceedings before a court of trial, in respect of which any person is entitled, or may be authorized, to appeal, shall be kept in the custody of the court of trial in accordance with the rules to be made for that purpose, for such time as may be provided by the rules, and subject to such powers as may be given by the rules for the conditional release of any such documents, exhibits, or things from that custody.

418. Powers of single judge

(1) The following powers of the Court, namely:

(a) The power to extend the time in which notice of appeal or of an application for leave to appeal may be given;

(b) The power to allow a person to be present at any proceedings where he is not entitled to be present without leave;

(c) The power to admit any person to bail;

(d) The power to give leave for the withdrawal or discontinuance of an appeal;

(e) The power to dismiss an appeal under section 402(7);

(f) The power to give directions –

may be exercised by a judge of the Court in the same manner as they may be exercised by the Court, and subject to the same provisions.

(2) If an appellant makes application to a judge under this section or section 401, and the judge refuses such application, the appellant shall be entitled to have such application determined by the Court.

418A. Powers of Associate Judge

(1) The following powers of the Court may be exercised by an Associate Judge of the Court in the same manner as they may be exercised by the Court, and subject to the same provisions:

(a) the power to extend the time in which notice of appeal or of an application for leave to appeal may be given;

(b) the power to allow a person to be present at any proceedings where he or she is not entitled to be present without leave;

(c) the power to give leave for the withdrawal or discontinuance of an appeal;

(d) the power to dismiss an appeal under section 402(7);

(e) the power to give directions.

(2) If an appellant applies to an Associate Judge under this section, and the Associate Judge refuses the application, the appellant is entitled to have the application determined by the Court.

419. Prerogative of mercy

The Attorney-General, on the consideration of any petition for the exercise of His Majesty's mercy, having reference to the conviction of any person or to any sentence passed on a convicted person, may –

(a) refer the whole case to the Court, and the case shall be heard and determined by the Court as in the case of an appeal by a person convicted; or

(b) if he desires the assistance of the Court on any point arising in the case with a view to the determination of the petition, refer that point to the Court for its opinion thereon, and the Court shall consider the point so referred and furnish the Attorney-General with its opinion thereon accordingly.

420. Private prosecutions

(1) Any person may, by leave of the Supreme Court, file an indictment against any other person for any crime alleged to have been committed by such other person.

(2) Leave to file any such indictment shall be granted upon such terms and conditions as the said Court in any case for the purpose of securing the substantial ends of justice thinks fit to direct.

(3) Every such indictment shall be endorsed with the words "Filed by leave of the Supreme Court of Tasmania", and with the name of the person prosecuting the same.

421. Ex officio indictments

Where an indictment is filed by a Crown Law Officer against a person who has not been committed for trial for the offence charged in the indictment, the Crown may, without any leave, by filing an indictment described as an ex officio indictment, proceed thereon in the manner prescribed in this chapter.

421A. Notice to attend or arrest warrant against person indicted in Supreme Court

(1) In this section –

at large means not detained in prison as specified in subsection (2)(c).

(2) On the application of a person who has filed an indictment in the Supreme Court under section 420 or 421 in respect of an offence, the Supreme Court –

(a) if the defendant is at large and the applicant requests it, must issue a notice to attend to the defendant ordering him or her to attend before the Supreme Court at the time and place specified in the notice; or

(b) if the defendant is at large but no such request is made, may issue an arrest warrant against the defendant to bring him or her before the Supreme Court; or

(c) if there is proof, on oath, that the defendant is a person at that time detained in a prison in relation to an offence other than that charged in the indictment, must direct the person in charge of the prison to detain the defendant in his or her custody until –

(i) the defendant is lawfully removed from that custody for the purpose of being tried on the indictment; or

(ii) the defendant is otherwise removed or discharged out of that custody by due course of law.

(3) Subsection (2)(a) and (b) applies in respect of a defendant regardless of whether or not the defendant is bound by a recognizance to appear to answer the indictment.

(4) A person may not make an application, and the Supreme Court may not proceed, under subsection (2) if the defendant has already attended before the Supreme Court and pleaded to the indictment.

421B. Committal for trial in certain circumstances

If a person is arrested under a warrant issued under section 421A in respect of an indictment and brought before the Supreme Court and it is proved upon oath before the Court that the person arrested is the person indicted –

(a) the person must be committed for trial without further inquiry or examination; and

(b) if the person has not appeared before the Supreme Court under section 331B in respect of the charge which is the subject of the indictment –

(i) section 331B applies; and

(ii) for the purpose of the application of section 331B, the person is taken to be appearing for the first time after being committed to the Supreme Court.

422. Trial at bar

In any case in which it thinks fit, the Supreme Court may, in its discretion, make an order for a trial to be at bar, subject to such terms and conditions as the Court may think fit.

423. Forms and proceedings

Except as herein modified, the provisions of the Code relating to the form and contents of pleadings shall apply to all proceedings under this chapter, and in all other respects the proceedings therein shall, until prescribed by the rules to be made under the Code, be in conformity as nearly as may be with the Crown Office Rules in England.

Chapter XLVIII - Consequences of Conviction

424.

425. Costs against convicts

(1) The court by which judgment is given on conviction of a person for a crime may, in addition to any other sentence, condemn that person to pay the whole or part of the costs or expenses incurred in or about the prosecution and conviction for the crime of which he is convicted.

(2) The payment of costs and expenses adjudged under this section may –

(a) be ordered by the court to be made out of moneys taken from the convicted person on his apprehension; or

(b) be enforced in the same manner as a fine under section 53 of the Sentencing Act 1997.

425A.

426.

Chapter XLIX - Miscellaneous Provisions

427. Proceedings against partners, &c.

A person who is a member of a co-partnership or company, or one of several co-owners, shall be liable on indictment in respect of any fraudulent act or omission done or made by him with respect to the property of such co-partnership, company, or co-owners in the same manner as if he were not such member or co-owner.

429. Prosecutions for perjury

(1) In any case in which a judge or person presiding in a court of record or a petty sessional court, or any person before whom a writ of inquiry is executed, is of opinion that any person has in any proceeding before him been guilty of perjury, he may order the prosecution of that person if there appears to be reasonable cause for such prosecution, and may commit him, or admit him to bail, to take his trial at the proper court; and may require any person to enter into a recognizance to prosecute or give evidence against the person so ordered to be prosecuted.

(2) No such order as aforesaid shall be given in evidence upon any trial resulting from such order.

429A.

431.

432.

433. Recognizance to keep the peace, &c., may be forfeited on proof of conviction

(1) Where any recognizance to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour is entered into by any person, as principal or surety, before the Supreme Court, or before any justice, it shall be lawful for a judge, upon –

(a) application made to him;

(b) production of such recognizance; and

(c) proof of a conviction of the party bound by such recognizance of any offence which is in law a breach of the condition of the same; and that a notice in writing, signed by the person seeking to put such recognizance in force, has, 7 clear days before such application is made, been personally served upon or left at the usual place of abode of the party or each of the parties, if more than one, who entered into such recognizance, that an application will be made to the said judge that the said recognizance shall be declared forfeited – to declare such recognizance to be forfeited.

(2) If such recognizance is declared forfeited the same shall be enforced as a forfeited recognizance as provided by section 431.

434. Procedure generally upon forfeited recognizance

Where no mode for enforcing the condition of any recognizance is provided in any Act, all such proceedings shall be had and taken in the manner hereinbefore directed for enforcing the condition of any recognizance to keep the peace or be of good behaviour.

Chapter L - Savings and Transitional Provisions

453. Abolition of capital punishment

After the commencement of the Criminal Code Act 1968, the sentence of punishment by death is no longer to be pronounced or recorded, and the punishment of death is no longer to be inflicted, in respect of crimes committed against the laws of the State.

454. Term of sentence of imprisonment

Except as is otherwise expressly provided, references in any enactment to a sentence of imprisonment passed on any person for a term not less than or exceeding a specified term are to be construed as including references to a sentence of imprisonment passed on that person for the term of his or her natural life.

455. Self-defence provisions

The amendments effected by the Criminal Code Amendment (Self-defence) Act 1987 do not apply to any act done before the day on which that Act commenced.

456. Non-application of amendments to section 338 (1)

Section 338(1), as amended by the Criminal Code Amendment Act 1987, does not apply to an indictment for the crime of dishonestly obtaining a financial advantage committed before the day on which that Act received the Royal Assent.

457. Repeal of section 155

(1) In this section, common law defence means a rule or principle of the common law that renders any circumstances a justification or excuse for any act or omission or a defence to a charge upon indictment.

(2) For the avoidance of doubt, the repeal effected by section 4 of the Criminal Code Amendment (Year and a Day Rule Repeal) Act 1993 is not to be taken as reviving any common law defence that might, but for this section, be revived by the repeal.

458. Application of *Bail Act 1994

Where, immediately before the commencement of the Bail (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act 1994, a person was bound by recognizance under section 431 to surrender and to plead to any indictment that may be filed against that person, the application of the Bail Act 1994 extends to that person as if he or she were bound by a document signed under section 7 (2) (a) of the Bail Act 1994 to that effect.

459. Savings

If, before the commencement of the Justice (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act 1993 –

(a) a copy of a summons was served on the Crown Solicitor or the Solicitor-General under section 304, that copy is to be taken as having been served on the Director of Public Prosecutions; or

(b) any act or thing was done by or in respect of the Crown Solicitor under section 368A in relation to a notice of alibi, that act or thing is to be taken as having been done by or in respect of the Director of Public Prosecutions.
